Legion Blasts Acheson And Foreign Policy

Name Erle Cocke, Jr. Of Dawson, Georgia, As New Commander

By OWEN CALLIN
(I. N. S. Staff Correspondent)

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 13.—Some 100,000 tired American Legionnaires and their wives and families today began leaving Los Angeles where they blue-printed a stern program of future peace for the nation and elected Erle Cocke Jr., of Dawson, Ga., as their new national commander.

Blast Foreign Policy

The Legion closed its 32nd annual convention yesterday after blasting the nation's foreign policy and demanding the ouster of Dean Acheson as Secretary of State and an entire "reconstitution" of the state department.

The attack came in a series of resolutions which also continued the Legion's drive for universal military training and a state of preparedness to lessen considerably the odds of future wars.

The final sessions first change of dynamite came in the report of the foreign affairs committee. A

NORTH KOREA COAST TOWNS BLASTED

—Acme Telephoto

KOREA—Allied warships continued to blast and burn a 105-mile stretch of the North Korean coast (1), almost to the border of Communist Manchuria. Chongjin and Tanchon, important rail centers, took the hardest blows, including broadsides of the battleship Missouri. The two-pronged land drive toward Pyongyang (2) continued, with U. S. 1st Cavalry pushing north from captured Hanpo (3), after by-passing Kumchon, and ROK forces gaining three miles west of captured Wonsan (4). Other ROK forces were reported in outskirts of Ichon. On the west coast, British carrier-based planes smashed targets on approaches to Chinnampo, port of Pyongyang.

Ports Of North Korea Are Again Attack Targets

Mighty Missouri Again Paces Blasting Of Korean Coast

By HOWARD HANDLEMAN
(Far Eastern Director, I. N. S.)

TOKYO, Oct. 13.—Red lifelines on Korea's northeast coast near Siberia and Manchuria were blasted for a second straight day by a 37-ship task fleet today as Allied troops to the south began a nutcracker drive to trap the remaining enemy army.

America's giant battleship Missouri once again paced the new attacks from the sea against the peninsula's northeast corner. Additional hundreds of tons of shells and bombs smashed North Korean port, rail and industrial installations along a 130-mile coastal strip.

U. S. Navy headquarters in Tokyo declared Friday night that the paralyzing bombardment constitutes a "tremendous effort to implement the United Nations surrender demands" served twice on North Korea by Gen. Douglas MacArthur.

Attacks To Continue

The Navy announcement hinted broadly that the shellings and carrier plane strikes will continue beyond their second day of action that has brought American war vessels within some 50 miles of Soviet Siberian waters.

Friday's renewed bombardments of the northeast coast came as South Korean troops far to the south smashed three miles inland from the captured eastern port of Wonsan. This apparently was the start of a westward drive to slash clear across the peninsula to Pyongyang and thus keep thousands of epemy troops defending the approaches to the North Korean capital.

Capture Town Of Hanpo

Sixty-five miles below Pongyang, American troops captured the town of Hanpo, astride the main railroad to the Communist capital, and thereby cut the supply route for several thousand Reds fighting stubbornly at Kumchon.

Just before the Americans took Hanpo, 1,000 Communist troops

Radio Will Speed Up Snow Removal Work In County

Radio will play an important part in the removal of snow from Lawrence county highways this coming winter, the state highway department has just announced.

Authorization has just been granted by the Harrisburg office of the department to install two-way radios in five pieces of equipment in the local department governed by Alfred A. Martin, superintendent.

Below Heavy Snow Belt

Lawrence County is almost the last county in District One of a seven-county area to get permission for installation due to the fact that the county rests just below the heavy snow belt. If heavy snows should snarl traffic in this county during the coming months, the radio equipped cars and trucks will be an effective measure in getting extra equipment on the scene quickly.

The radio equipped cars and trucks will save hours of travel

By PIERRE J. HUSS
(I. N. S. Staff Correspondent)

LAKE SUCCESS, N. Y., Oct. 13.—Intensive private consultations are under way today to fill the United Nations secretary general's post following Russia's veto on renaming Trygve Lie.

Soviet delegate Jacob Malik vetoed Lie's reappointment to a second five-year term in a closed session of the UN Security Council in the face of nine approving votes. Nationalist China abstained.

Expectations are that a race for the $40,000 U. N. post will develoup, although western delegations—including the United States—are strongly in favor of having the General Assembly extend the Norwegian's term indefinitely.

Actual Battle For North Korea Capital Nears

U. S. Forces By-Pass Strategic Kumchon In Pyongyang Drive

By IRVING LEVINE
(I. N. S. War Correspondent)

WITH THE U. S. FIRST CAVALRY NORTH OF KAESONG, Oct. 13 — The Seventh Cavalry Regiment by-passed strategic Kumchon in North Korea today in a vital advance that may be a prelude to the actual battle for the Communist capital of Pyongyang.

The Seventh, modern version of a famed American unit which General Cuter once commanded, swung north from Paekchon west of Kaesong, slugged up a heavily-minded road and sezied Hanpo, 65 miles southeast of Pyongyang.

LONDON, Oct. 13.—(INS)—A purge of alleged traitors in the Hungarian army was revealed today in a dispatch from Budapest.

Nogrady said that Hungary had to make her army foolproof to meet any "imperialist attack wherever it comes."

French Forces Evacuating Indo-Chinese Fortress Town

(BULLETIN)

SAIGON, Indo-China, Oct. 13—(INS)—French Army headquarters in Saigon announced today that its forces are evacuating the northern Indo-China fortress town of Thatkhe.

A brief announcement of the withdrawal from the town near the Chinese frontier in the face of continued onslaughts by Communist Viet Minh Rebels said:

"The delicate and urgent avacuation of Thatkhe began Tuesday night."

An army spokesman said that important elements from the Thatkhe garrison already have made their way through the difficult Lungh Phai mountain pass and reached Nam Chan, 18 miles to the southeast.

The French said yesterday they had given up the town of Thai Nguyen to protect units there from entrapment by guerrillas infiltrating into the area in strength.

The seriousness of the situation in the north was indicated by reports that Hanoi, capital of Tonkin, may be in danger of attack.

Observers believe that the withdrawal from Thatkhe may have been ordered to bolster the Hanoi defenses.

Reinforcements had just been rushed to Thatkhe early this week after French and Moroccan units suffered heavy losses when they were attacked from ambush while withdrawal from the northern garrison town of Caobang.

"There's gold in them hills" was borne out by workmen excavating for the turnpike between Enon Valley and Petersburg this week. On Section A of the Turnpike construction a bulldozer has turned up a deposit of gold-bearing sand. Engineers explained that it was mostly a glacial deposit but they are puzzled as to where the sand came from. Some of the sand was taken for a test and the gold particles were the real thing although so minute.

U. S. Pledges To Turn Control Over To Korea

By PIERRE J. HUSS
(I. N. S. Staff Correspondent)

LAKE SUCCESS, N. Y., Oct. 13.—The United States gave its solemn pledge to the United Nations today that Gen. Douglas MacArthur's U. N. forces will turn over control of Korea to a civil administration as quickly as possible.

In a basic declaration made to the U. N. interim committee on Korea, the U. S. presented a memorandum from the unified command reaffirming full intention to withdraw troops and not to establish any military bases in the Asiatic peninsula.

At the same time, John Foster Dulles as American U. N. delegate said in the 60-member political committee that there is no reason to fear the United States. He reminded the delegates that U. S. power in Korea has been placed "at the service and subject to the will of U. N."

Dulles joined Britain and others in rejecting the Russian bid for big power consultations in place of U. N. assembly authority to call on its members for armed forces to smash aggression anywhere in the world.

Tired Of Fine Words

Dulles pointed out that previous Russian offers of international consultations have brought no concrete results. He said there is nothing to indicate that Soviet foreign policy has changed, and added:

"I think that the world is getting tired of fine words with no substance."

The U. S. delegate said the day after Vishinsky proposed that the military staff committee renew efforts to form an international army for the veto-bound security council, the Soviet delegate failed to appear at a secret meeting of the committee, composed of military experts of the Big Five powers.

Intensive behind-the-scenes discussions were conducted throughout the day at Lake Success to fill the post of Secretary-General Trygve Lie. The Russians refused yesterday to accept Lie for a second five-year term.

The sands of time are running out for all the candidates, each day marks time that's passed for talks and likewise for debates. This is the season of the year when politics are hot, and laddies running for a job put on the well-known spot, the fellow who has served a while and wants to win some more, and so he's shooting for the day when voters call the score. The lad who's in now points with pride, the other with alarm, will tell you of the things he's missed for factory or farm. The voter meantime just sits back and lets them go their way, he'll vote just as he wants to vote, it's 56 today.

France Seeks More Aid On Indo-China

WASHINGTON, Oct. 13.—(INS)—France made an urgent plea today for the speed up of American aid for its forces in Indo-China as talks began at the state department on improvement of the French military situation.

The French plea was delivered to Defense Secretary Marshall by French Defense Defense Minister Jules Moch.

The request did not ask for any increase in the sum already allocated to Indo-China but did urge a change in the types of equipment and a speed up of deliveries.

The French expressed a desire for more tank landing craft, guns particularly artillery, munitions and light bombers.

United States and French economic and military policy makers met today to discuss Frances' military position in Indo-China and the European continent.

The meeting is the first of a series of formal gatherings to develop means whereby France can insure her defenses on the continent in event of any communist aggression.

The fact that the Indo-China situation is included was revealed by the presence of several state department experts on southeast Asia.

Assuming a complete victory in Korea, Indo-China is considered most likely trouble spot in the far east. There, with apparent aid from the Chinese communists Moscow trained Ho Chin-minh is seeking to overthrow the French supported regime of Bao-Dai.

The United States group at today's meeting at the state department was headed by Secretaries Acheson of State, Marshall of Defense and Snyder of Treasury.

The French delegation, including a group of about 20 military and economic advisors, was headed by Defense Secretary Jules Moch Finance Minister Maurice Petsche and Ambassador Henry Bonnet.

The talks will remain highly secret for the present because of political repercussions which might arise in France over the question of including Germany into the European defense plan.

Operate Bureau With One Clerk

Finance Director Albert A. Hoyland's office is now on a basis it was years ago when the late finance director, William T. Burns, operated the bureau with only one clerk. Since the elevation of Miss Edith Cleaveland to a post as acting controller, Mr. Hoyland has decided to operate his position with one clerk, Miss Martha Alexander.

RUSSIA VETOES RENAMING LIES AS U.N. SECRETARY GENERAL

pines, Sir Ramaswami Mudaliar of India, Lester B. Pearson of Canada, Padilla Nervo of Mexico and possibly Gunnar Myrdal of Sweden. All kept silent pending developments in the face of the hottest political race likely to spring up on the international scene in recent years.

Lie himself refused comment, flatly refusing to see newsmen or issue any comment. He has announced repeatedly that he is not a candidate for re-election, a declaration looked at as "playing hard to get". Lie also indicated he wants no mere extension but may readily take it if the assembly votes him one by sufficient majority.

Security Council President Warren Austin of the U. S. immediately sent a letter to Assembly President Nasrollah Entezam notifying him of the 11-nation body's inability to agree on a candidate for secretary-general beginning next year.

Smashing Impact

Although it was a closed session, the Russian veto exploded with smashing impact yesterday in the lobbies and committee chambers of the UN. A heated controversy began almost immedately on whether the assembly is authorized to vote Lie an extension of several years on the grounds that the Security Council is unable to agree on a candidate.

Among the western delegates, including the U. S., the viewpoint prevails that the assembly is in a position to accept the Security Council's notification of failure to agree as a legitimate excuse to go ahead and keep the post filled with an extended term. Others point out that the world court already has ruled in several instances that UN memberships and related questions must be approved by the Security Council.

It is a foregone conclusion that an extension of Lie's term, if referred by the assembly to the Security Council, also will be vetoed by Russia.

PRESIDENT ON FIRST LEG OF PACIFIC FLIGHT

cially announced for security reasons but it was believed it may be Wake island.

Toured Base Hospital

During the hours he spent at Fairfield-Suisun last night Mr Truman toured the base hospital where he shook hands and talked with more than a hundred litter cases newly arrived from the Korean war front.

Newsmen and photographers who met the president at the base were not allowed to accompany him on the hospital tour. White House press secretary Charles G Ross explained Mr. Truman did not want to "make a stunt" of his tour.

Ross said the president autographed casts of the wounded and talked at length to them. The secretary quoted Mr. Truman as saying he was "very much impressed" with the morale of the men and that there is no worry about the country's future with such young men fighting for it.

Party of Advisors

The president retired to his quarters on the plane after bidding goodnight to a party of advisors who are flying in a separate craft.

The group of advisors who left Fairfield-Suisun at 2:57 a. m. (EST) included Secretary of the Army Frank Pace, Jr.; Gen. Omar Bradley, chairman of the joint chiefs of staff; Averell Harriman special representative; Ambassador-at-large Philip C. Jessup, and Dean Rusk, assistant secretary of state for far eastern affairs.

The gleaming silver and blue presidential plane landed at Fairfield-Suisun's gigantic base at 10:14 p. m. (EST).

The president and his party had a smooth and uneventful trip from St. Louis. After his arrival the president telephoned the White House to inform the first lady of his safe arrival.

Secretary Ross said the president will leave Hawaii at midnight tonight to fly to his meeting with Gen. MacArthur.

MacArthur To Leave Saturday

Wake island is only about 10 hours from Gen. MacArthur's Tokyo headquarters and a flight from Honolulu takes about eight hours.

MacArthur's Tokyo headquarters indicated the United Nations supreme commander will leave the Japanese capital "some time Saturday" (Tokyo time) to meet the president.

It was apparent the conference will be a brief one as the president will be back in San Francisco either Monday night or Tuesday morning.

Ross said Mr. Truman will spend the greater part of Tuesday putting the finishing touches on the foreign policy speech he will make at the San Francisco War Memorial Opera House at 11:30 p. m. (EST) Tuesday.

In this speech the president is expected to make a direct report to the American people on the outcome of his far eastern policy conference with Gen. MacArthur.

The chief executive will confer wtih Gen. MacArthur to chart the peace in Korea and will discuss United States far eastern policy. He said the meeting also is to chart a new strategy for world peace.

Her position in the finance department will be filled by Miss Martha Alexander, an atiache of the finance department.

Miss Cleaveland was name to act as controller by motion of Finance Director Hoyland which was seconded by Councilman Davis last Monday when council met formally. All members of council voted favorably on the motion.

Church Women Will Register

Be one of the first million women and girls to take part in the ecumenical register of Protestant women.

What good will result from the ecumenical register?

The ecumenical register will show that Protestant church women are concerned about "the whole household of God in the whole world." Through the register church women may express joy in the growth of Christian unity of spirit, purpose, program and action. Cooperative work among Christians will be enriched and extended as results of enrolling women in the register being conducted this week in Lawrence county and all over the United States.

shouting throng of delegates refused to accept the committee's wording of the clause on "reconstitution" of the state department and, although not mentioning him by name, changed the resolution so as to demand the ouster of Acheson.

The resolution in its original form condemned "secretaries of state, past and present," for failure to evaluate the dangers of communism. By popular vote it was made to read to "condemn the secretary of state."

Acheson Not Named

It was explained that Acheson was not specifically mentioned in the resolution because it is against Legion policy to name a person in a report of censure.

After William Verity, chairman of the committee, read the report, delegate George Clear of Georgia touched off the excitement. He demanded that the wording be changed to "secretary," thus pinning the Legion's condemnation directly on Acheson.

"We should name names," shouted John Steele, former Illinois governor.

National Commander George N. Craig said that "the wording of the resolution as changed will leave no doubt as to who is meant."

Otherwise the highly-charged foreign affairs committee report was adopted as read. The highlights included:

"Sponsoring of a resolution by the American delegate to the United Nations to the effect that further aggression in any part of the world by Soviet Russia will meet the full force of retaliation by the United Nations police authority including, if necessary, the release of atomic weapons on Soviet Russia.

"Continued defense of Formosa until the threat to free and independent nations in this area by the forces of aggression and communism have been eliminated.

He substituted for Irvin Ropp who was ill. The choir selections included: "Old Hundred," "A Charge To Keep," "Majestic Sweetness," "I Love Thy Kingdom" and "Faith of Our Fathers."

The program will continue this evening, with a rededication service and a basket picnic on Saturday followed by a singspiration and chalk drawings by Rev. Thomas I. Russell.

FIND ZINC ORE DEPOSIT

FRANKLIN, N. J., Oct. 13.—(INS)—The New Jersey Zinc Company announced today the discovery of a valuable zinc ore deposit at Friedensville, near Easton, Pa.

Walker H. Evans, general superintendent of the company, says it plans to build a plant at Friedensville within the next year.

ACTUAL BATTLE FOR NORTH KOREA CAPITAL NEARS

at Gen. MacArthur's headquarters termed it the "most important development" of the last several days.

The headquarters spokesman pointed out that the advance makes Kumchon untenable. Kumchon is the center of the entire Communist defense line along the 38th parallel in the west.

During the drive on Hanpo American tanks were brought to a standstill by land mines in wooden cases which evade magnetic detectors. Mine disposal squads had to prod the road inch by inch with their bayonets to find the mines. All the while the Reds were pouring heavy mortar and machinegun fire on the road.

Reds Fight Fiercely

Despite the cutting of their supply lines, Communist troops fought fiercely around Kumchon and indications were they would have to be blasted out of their positions.

A staff officer said that speed is now of paramount importance, since the Reds apparently are fighting a delaying action around Kumchon to give time to prepare defenses of their capital of Pyongyang.

This officer said that time must be denied to the enemy further north even if Red pockets must be left in the rear. He added:

"We can always deal with them later. The important thing right now is to get as deeply into North Korea as possible and as quickly as possible."

which had been missed from Buckingham Palace. It has been recovered intact.

"It contained only correspondence and no state papers or secret documents. All the correspondence was intact."

The Evening News said that the diplomatic box, with the initials G. R., was found in a dustbin, broken open. The news said some of the papers remained but others were missing.

Scotland Yard men swarmed about the palace, some conferring with Maj. Gen. A. Salisbury-Jones.

The news said the robbery was disclosed at 2 a. m. after the empty box was found near the palace.

Londoners, reading the Evening News account, described the incident as "the most astounding robbery in a century".

OAKWOOD CLUB HAS BIRTHDAY DINNER

The annual birthday dinner of the Oakwood Garden club was held Thursday at a dining room in New Wilmington.

Sixteen members were present for the occasion. The table was beautifully decorated and centered with a large white bowl filled with pink polyanthus roses.

After the dinner members went to the parlor where the business meeting was held. Election of officers was a highlight, with the following results: president, Mrs. Mabel McBride; vice-president, Mrs. Helen Jenkins; secretary, Mrs. Alice Hofmeister; treasurer, Mrs. Elizabeth Miller; corresponding secretary, Mrs. Blanche Sontum; member-at-large, Mrs. Margaret Elmore.

The retiring president, Mrs. Elmore, was complimented by the club for her outstanding work as the year's leader and was given a gift in appreciation of her fine work. She responded with words of thanks for the support and encouragement of the members.

The new president, Mrs. McBride, asked the club to repeat the clubwomen's creed in unison.

FARCE IN EAST GERMANY

It's no wonder that the three Allied high commissioners in West Germany have denounced next Sunday's East German elections as a farce. They have very properly told Vasily Chuikov, Soviet control commission chief, that the voting will be the direct opposite of democratic processes as Americans know them.

The Communists have taken pains to insure that the balloting will be one way only. Everybody who votes "No" will be blacklisted by election guards—and to be blacklisted by any Soviet agency means plenty of trouble.

In addition, all who abstain from going to the polls will be marked down as voting "Yes." So there is no way to play it safe. Every eligible voter is on a pro-Communist "or else" basis. As usual in Red-dominated countries, the unfortunate citizen has to vote the dictated way or fear for his own and his family's safety.

As the traveler departs from the Soviet sector of East Berlin he sees large signs announcing "You are now leaving the democratic sector of Berlin." In the same area banners proclaim loyalty to "Stalin and democracy." The so-called elections about to be inflicted upon East Germany are merely one more proof of the betrayal of a people by Red Russia.

TRUMAN AND MacARTHUR MEETING

President Truman and Gen. MacArthur, who have never met, will see each other this weekend at some undisclosed point in the Pacific. The president will compliment the general upon the manner in which he has carried out his assignment in Korea, and they will discuss the "final phase" of the Korean war, relief and reconstruction in that land, and "other matters" which are within Gen. MacArthur's area of responsibility.

The president and the general have dealt heretofore at arms length, a situation which can often produce misunderstandings. It is well that they are to meet in person, and since MacArthur cannot under present circumstances leave his post for any long period, Mr. Truman will travel a great way to bring this meeting about.

In such a conference, Mr. Truman will have the advantage of hearing at first hand, from the man who is our most experienced military observer of Far Eastern questions, opinions which are necessary in the formulation of an American policy. And Gen. MacArthur will learn, also at first hand, from the commander in chief some of the details of our policy which he may not wholly understand.

Out of that exchange may come agreements which are essential if diplomatic and military actions are to work, as they should, like finger and thumb in furthering American and United Nations' interests.

PLUGGING THE HOLES

Many Americans are quite curious about the mysterious "instruments" in little black valises which were carried aboard the Polish liner Batory when she hove to off New York harbor several days ago. While at anchor, U. S. customs men gave the liner as thorough and unhurried a going over as she has ever had. Only then was she permitted to dock with her passengers. Evidently customs agents found nothing very suspicious.

One can't help but be impressed by the new "tougher" attitude which is marking relations with the Soviet and her satellites wherever these contacts occur. Time was when a foreign nation could hold American vessels and American citizens with no question of retaliation by this government. The individual citizen, or relative of an American who had suffered loss of liberty or indignities in the hands of a foreign government, was left to stew in his own frustration.

Giving the Batory, which has earned the nickname "Commie Ferry" among waterfront reporters, a good combing over is quite within the letter and the spirit of the special laws enacted this year. These were set up to guard against sneak attacks on America's large coastal cities by apparently innocent vessels of foreign registry carrying an A-bomb in the bilge.

There are drawbacks. It loads a tremendous amount of work on the slim force of custom agents, and to a certain extent holds up the normal flow of ocean traffic. But no one can feel very sorry for the owners of foreign ships which have been put through the inspection mill. This type of search is perfectly legal under international law—trumpetings by the Daily Worker to the contrary notwithstanding.

There is hardly any question of "retaliation" from Soviet and satellite sources at all, since U. S. shipping for the most part is barred from Soviet ports. It is believed the great majority of Americans will applaud this screening of foreign ships. By keeping alert, gradually it may be possible to get most of the rat holes plugged.

SPY HUNT TIGHTENED

The military is screening aircraft plant employes very carefully in its battle against espionage and sabotage.

The tightening up is making it tough on plane builders who are finding it proportionately more difficult to find skilled labor.

In other industries, even some war production industries, the situation would not be the puzzler it is in aircraft because poor security risks could be put on unclassified work.

But in the warplane industry there is scarcely a department where some restricted material is not handled.

Most of the poor security risks are new hires but recently one west coast bomber plant was forced to dismiss a skilled tool maker who had been working for the company for 10 years.

See Rapid-Fire Conference

An explanation for the sudden and jittery Communist propaganda campaign against United Nations liberation of Korea emerged today as President Truman moved toward the orient for his meeting with Gen. Douglas MacArthur.

For it became obvious to Red radio spokesmen and government leaders as well as to laymen everywhere that this conference is to be a rapid-fire affair. Designed to chart in a few hours the mopup of Korea and future American measures elsewhere in Asia.

Much of the initial speculation concerning any sort of a protracted series of "negotiations" between the President and his supreme commander in the Pacific now has gone by the board.

Will Be Speedy

Information from the Presidential party indicates that this will be a "wrapup" affair, possibly requiring not more than a few hours from start to finish.

In other words, it appears to be a foregone conclusion that long before Mr. Truman made known his plans, he and Gen. MacArthur had reached a "complete meeting of minds" on what has been done and what remains to be done and the chief thing is simply to shake hands on the matter.

There are, of course, the psychological factors inherent in this meeting between two powerful, forceful men who have fought this Korean war together, just as they battled in unison in the closing days of World War II and—under somewhat different circumstances—the first world conflict.

Some Past Differences

It is no betrayal of confidence to mention some past differences between the Commander-in-chief and the Far Eastern Commander, principally with regard to Gen. MacArthur's visit to Formosa and his Pacific strategy statement which the President tried to suppress.

But by and large, both men have shared the same view on the need for quick victory in Korea. And so far as can be determined, Mr. Truman long ago gave MacArthur an entirely free hand to act for the United Nations in discharge of his duties. And publicly, at least, there has been no stinting of praise on the part of the President.

There is little doubt that correspondents are looking forward most eagerly to this meeting.

Past experiences show that personal contact between men of towering position and personalities who have never met before reveal facets of the mind and intellect that nothing else could.

Virtually everyone who has met Gen. MacArthur and has talked with him says frankly and unashamedly that the immediate as well as lasting reaction is one of awe.

By the same token, intimates tell of a radiance that beams from Mr. Truman, somewhat similar despite their deep differences in personality, to that of the late Franklin D. Roosevelt.

But neither awe nor radiance has any particular place on the Truman-MacArthur agenda.

Swift Portrayal of Views

Rather this meeting promises to be a swift and streamlined corroboration of views, and the mere fact that a program of speed has been established may well account for Communist propaganda jitters.

It is noteworthy also that with the meeting only a few hours away, Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Vishinsky has been pulling out all the stops before the United Nations in a desperate attempt to prevent the veto power in the security council from being vitiated to the slightest degree by strengthening executive sinews in the general assembly.

Vishinsky's moves seem prompted by a despairing fear that Russia's grasp in the security council is slipping away.

Military intervention in the Far East could not rescue this. It would, in point of fact, simply destroy it.

But observers in general feel that if Russia was to move to the extreme of intervention and automatic precipitation of a third world war, she would have done so long before this.

The United Nations is established militarily on the Asiatic continent. There is growing support for a United Nations Army on a permanent basis. And President Truman and Gen. MacArthur are able to meet in the wide Pacific not to explore with questioning gestures what can be done to preserve the peace. On the contrary, their intention seems to be merely to set the seal on decisions that not only have been reached but are on their way to fulfillment.

The Parent Problem

By Garry C. Myers, Ph. D.

HELPING WITH THE HOUSEWORK

Some who discuss development of child responsibility bemoan the passing of the days when there was kindling to gather, wood to carry in, water to bring from the spring or well. They say the modern home with all its conveniences does not afford chores for the child.

It is true that there is no coal to handle or ashes to carry out in many a modern home, yet there are more lawns to mow than in days of yore and more gardens to plant, weed and cultivate. In the average home there are still potatoes to peel, dishes to wash, floors to scrub, beds to make, all of which the boy can learn to do as well as the girl. Even where there are many gadgets, somebody must be rsponsible for operating them. Though gadgets only require the pressing of a button to start or stop them, some one in the family must take this responsibilty. When the mother assumes all such care, what happens to the moral fiber of the growing child? Even though the modern home may be different from the home of years ago, it has abundant opportunities for the child to share in the duties there. The only problem is to train him to do so.

Regular Jobs

Don't, as a rule, pay the child for regular jobs about the home, or make his allowance dependent thereon. (My bulletin, "Allowances" may be had in a stamped envelope sent me in care of 235 East 45th Street, New York City, New York.) Be very careful not to drift into the habit of nagging and arguing over his required jobs. Either find ways to make their doing attractive and their nondoing effectively unpleasant, or else drop them. Remember that he really takes responsibility only when on his own initiative he performs this job without being told to do it. Doing just one regular job a day may have greater moral value than doing ten if in doing the ten he must be repeatedly urged until he does them. Should you find that your child has merely been a robot, doing each job only after being driven to do it, better drop all but one or two of these requirements and try to be more skillful in applying penalties other than tongue-lashings. Do watch that tongue, so often a deadly enemy to good child guidance.

In a family of several children, let each child of sufficient age and ability have his own definite job. Don't let jobs overlap, or set two children on the same job at the same time. Let 10-year-old Jimmy wash the dishes tonight and Rebecca, 12, tomorrow night. Mark the calendars so there will be no doubt. No harm is done if they choose to trade turns, or even to do the dishes together.

Some Housework

Boys as well as girls should do some housework. But if the father suppose his boy should not wash dishes or do other housework, his cooperation will have to be won before the son will go at it willingly. It will be wonderful if dad now and then will help each child with the dishes or help him prepare a meal. Boys brought up to help around the house are getting excellent training for sharing in similar responsibilities in their own families after marriage. Very effective it might be were mother or dad, occassionally, at unexpected times, to do the youngster's chores for him. Perhaps this should be done according to a secret calendar planned ahead, so the child won't be tempted to work on his parent's feelings.

Neither parent nor grandparent should, however, volunteer to do the child's regular job for him when he puts it off or chooses not to do it. Fortunate the child who learns to do his share of the jobs about the home.

Health Talks

By DR. W. A. WOMER

OLD STYLE—FOMITES

Fomites is pronounced FOAM-eye-tees. It used to be a very common word in health departments. It meant clothing or bedding or carpets or such things which might carry disease.

Nowadays it is not used very much. The sick patient gets all the attention. The bateria or other causes of disease are closely associated with him and not so much attention is given to his surroundings.

Bugs and lice and fleas and other pests are eradicated as much possible but fumigation is not used routinely any more.

Bible Thought

And the soldiers led him away into the hall, called Praetorium; and they called together the whole band. And they clothed him with purple, and platted a crown of thorns, and put it about his head and began to salute him, Hail, King of the Jews! And they smote him on the head with a reed, and did spit upon him, and bowing their knees worshipped him.—Mark 15: 16, 17 18, 19.

One Man's Opinion

By Walter Kiernan

Korea has been a big disappointment to Moscow. . . Those "peace-loving North Koreans" who were "victims of aggression" were not supposed to be aggressed back to and beyond the 38th parallel.

Stalin is still wishing them well as far as the 39th parallel. . . After that they may be on their own.

But Stalin did not leave Moscow to say "Hello" whereas Mr. Truman carries his own mail.

Harry did not ask the U. N. whether it was all right to visit the commander of the U. N. forces. . . He figures his term would be up before his request could get on the agenda.

It's doubtful whether Vishinsky will accept any of our new peace plans . . . He's got so many of our old ones he hasn't opened yet.

But Stassen thinks if he could sit down with Stalin he would get answers to some questions and it's worth trying. . . At least he couldn't give anything away.

That would be a change.

From Me To You

By MESEEALL

Just received a letter from Korea . . . Sgt. John E. Cochran of the 1st Signal Battalion of the 1st Marine Division . . . in which he asked that we use a little poem the Marine lads have composed . . . and also asked if we would notify his parents that he hoped to be home for Christmas dinner . . . And Sgt. John, we hope and pray that you will fulfill that hope . . . Mr. and Mrs. Geo. W. Cochran, parents of the Marine were mighty glad to get the word and they also informed me that just recently they received 11 letters from him . . . all at one time. Here's the "New Marine Hymn".

From the halls of Montezuma
To the shore of Tripoli
We'll police our goshdarned Navy
As long as they're at sea.

First to fight our Army's battles
And to win our Navy's fights
And still our old friend Harry
Tries to louse up all our rights.

Our Flags have flown from every ship
Since the Navy had its start
A Marine detachment in its midst
Kept the fleet from falling apart.

Uncle Harry says we're just police
And really, he should know
We've arrested wars since we began
And dealt the final blow.

We have honor, We have glory
We're the finest ever seen
But still our propaganda
Is a second rate machine.

Harry's Army and Navy
Never looked on heaven's scenes
Cause they know the angels are in love
With United States Marines.

British Policy Has Changed

LONDON, Oct. 13.—Not so many years ago this capital was the focus of the greatest imperium of modern times. The boast about the sun never setting on the British Empire was truthful as well as proud.

In the interval since that empire vanished—except for stray bits and pieces in various corners of the globe—a remarkable transition has taken place. By conscious, careful, skillful policy the British have been changing over from imperial master to friendly partner.

Amazed At Success

They are frankly amazed at the success they have had thus far in this quick-change act. After performing as the high-handed British Raj for a great many years, they would not have been surprised at being shoved out once and for all with the door permanently closed against any kind of relationship.

The instrument of change is that international club known as the British Commonwealth. It is hardly necessary to add that the old rules of exclusion coming out of the century of empire have long since been junked.

There has just been concluded here a commonwealth conference—operating under the new rules—on southeast Asia. While the test of performance is still to come, on the score of agreed objectives and plans for the future, it seems to have been highly successful.

May Be Ray Of Hope

As the tensions in Asia build up, there seems little hope of any kind of peace whether short term or long term. But if there is a ray of hope left, it is in the patient, painstaking approach to real co-operation seen here.

Around the conference table were representatives of India, Pakistan, Ceylon, Australia, New Zealand and Britain, with other commonwealth countries participating from time to time. They drew up a prospectus for the development of the great underdeveloped areas of southeast Asia. And a later session this program was taken up with representatives of Burma, Indonesia and other Asian countries not part of the commonwealth.

The prospectus includes a technical assistance bureau to furnish technological aid. It includes a careful scheduling of repayments on the sterling debt that Britain ran up in these countries during World War II. And it contains at least the tentative outline of a program of capital investment, with emphasis on developmental loans from the international bank.

Some of the steps will be carried out at once. This represents practical progress toward east-west understanding and eventual partnership.

Hopeful Of U. S. Efforts

While they are discreet in talking about it, the British planning this co-operative policy are hopeful that American efforts in behalf of southeast Asia can become a part of the whole program. Assistant Secretary of State George McGee was an unofficial observer at the commonwealth conference. Capital investment, whether public or private, must come in considerable part from the only great pool of surplus capital—and that is in the United States.

Policy planners here have borne in mind the warning given by Prime Minister Jawaharlal Nehru of India three years ago. At a conference on commonwealth relations in the new and empireless world, Nehru in effect said: "You can fight Communism in Asia, but you can't fight both Communism and Nationalism. If you try to fight Nationalism, you will be driven out of Aisa."

Behind Nehru's Attitude

In other words, to resist the national aspirations of people who have lived long under Colonialism would be a fatal error. In part, at least, this is behind Nehru's attitude on China. He believes that the Chinese Communists, given a moderate policy in the west, will develop independence of the Soviet Union even though their economy and government may be Communist. That is to say, they would follow the example of Yugoslavia.

A lot of the credit for the success of the recent conference and the new approach to new Asian states goes to two exceptionally able younger men in the Labor government. Patrick Gordon-Walker, minister of common-

They Say

ST. LOUIS—President Truman: "I hope eventually there will come a time in the world when it will not be necessary for us to settle our differences by killing each other."

PYONGYANG—North Korean Premier Kim Il Sung to Premier Stalin, as quoted by radio Moscoy: "The Korean people, with warm gratitude, constantly feel friendly for the support rendered by the Soviet Union to our people in the struggle for the unification and independence of our Motherland."

MOSCOW—Premier Stalin answering Kim Il Sung, as quoted by radio Moscow: "I wish the Korean people who are heroically defending the independence of their country the successful completion of their long years of struggle for the establishment of a united, democratic Korea."

LAKE SUCCESS—Col. Alfred G. Katzin, personal representative for UN Secretary General Trygve Lie in Korea: "It (the Korean campaign) was a credit especially to the American soldiers, who bore the brunt of the fighting since troops from other nations were so long in arriving."

The Professor's Dilemma

(By HOLMES ALEXANDER)

WASHINGTON, D. C., Oct. 13.—Shortly after Harold Stassen, president of Pennsylvania University left town last week, some 400 sure-enough college and university heads came pouring in. None of them held a sensational press conference or offered a Big Me plan to save the world. But they all gathered in the Chamber of Commerce building for a two-day conference. There they boned over the question that concerns all serious educators today—what's going to happen to American higher education in this crazy world of ours?

Go Along For Ride

Let's see. The draft act has been in off-and-on operation since 1940. Boys in the glorious curiosity age of life have been snatched from the campus and herded into barracks and battles. Most of them come back to take speeded-up courses under the various GI benefits. But this postwar diploma derby is hardly a facsimile of genuine education. Many veterans merely go along for the ride. The overcrowding has been such that the general level of teaching falls off, and standards are dropped to accommodate quantity insteady of quality. Nearly all male students, the good and the bad, must work with one eye on the draft board and the other on quick opportunity to win a sheepskin passport to a job. The old idea of a college education as an incubator of better citizenship is badly distorted. Every professional educator knows the 1940-50 system is wrong. But every wide-awake American knows it is unavoidable.

On Slightly Higher Plane

On a slightly higher plane the postgraduate system is also thrown out of kilter. Candidates for Ph.D. degrees shy away from the arts and letters. They go in for the sciences instead. But even scientific education is unbalanced. Too many young men are bemused by the lure of the atom. Our graduate classes of engineers have fallen off 33 per cent since 1946. One set of figures, given out at the conference, is well-nigh incredible. In 1946-47-48 we turned out only 278 new mathematicians, only 166 new bacteriologists and only 25 new meteorologists. That's nowhere near enough to keep us aware of the ever-unfolding universe.

Then there's the tax which government places upon the manufacture of scientific brains and skills. During the last decade the number of scientists at Federal jobs has jumped from 21,000 to 54,000 There is really no way to tell how many college and industrial laboratories are doing piece-work research for the government. But this we do know—there is a mass movement of men and man-hours from academic-industrial science into military science. This again is bad for education, but unavoidable for the nation's safety.

Easy To Forget Pattern

It is easy for the layman to forget that the pattern of our education, like the patterns of our economics and diplomacy, is subject to what happens in the Kremlin. Russia not only drives us toward collectivism in domestic and foreign affairs. She also drives us toward a form of military vocationalism in educational matters. When the Korean War forced Congress to raise the Defense Department budget by $10 billion, that meant another $120 million to be spent on science and scientists by the same department. At this writing about 30 per cent of available scientists are working for the government. If the trend continues, practically the whole scientific population could become Federalized.

Happily, there are men in top government posts who keep a wary eye on this dangerous trend. One of them is Dr. Eric Walker, executive secretary of the Defense Department's research and development board. Walker came close to making the most cogent speech of the educators' conference when he said:

Should Continue As Usual

"Education is the one activity which to the greatest extent possible should continue business as usual. Give us all the good scientists you can, not just draftsmen and slide-rule pushers, but men with ideas. We need people in the liberal arts too—a good sprinkling of dreamers as well as doers. We want men of action, of course; but we need men and women who just sit around and think."

You can spend a lot of time around Washington these days without hearing wiser words than that. Even in a crisis—especially in a crisis—let us change the educational pattern as little and as cautiously as we dare.

Looking At Life

By ERICH BRANDEIS

Politics, to the uninitiated, would be very funny if it weren't so terribly sad.

We are in the midst of another campaign. We are about to elect a large number of people who will control the fate of our nation.

From now until November a lot of the candidates for office are going to shower us with words, promises, kisses and handshakes.

It is our president who recently told a man, about to run for office, that the candidate who could shake the most hands had the best chance to win.

There was quite a bit of indignation that the president of the United States should make such a statement.

Unfortunately Mr. Truman was right.

I am certainly no political authority, as I have said time and again.

Yet, I am a voter. My vote, plus your vote plus several million other votes, determines who shall be running this country.

In other words, you and I and the rest of us put into the hands of those men in Washington complete control over our lives.

After we elect them they can get us into wars and have us killed. They can tax us into poverty. They can tell our farmers what to grow and what to destroy.

I could go on for pages, recounting all the things we empower our elected representative to do.

There is no more important body of men and women in the world than our Congress.

The president is important. But Congress can control him—as recently proved by the anti-Communist law that was passed over his veto.

But what do we do about ELECTING those who can make or ruin us?

Frankly, if you are as sloppy as I have been—nothing.

I know practically nothing about the Senators and Congressmen from my district.

I know their names—I have read something about them in my paper. That's all.

If any of them had applied to me for a $35 a week job, I would have investigated them thoroughly. I would have looked into their past, their background, their character.

Would you hire a farmhand, a clerk, a stenographer, without knowing all about them? Wouldn't you look up their references, give them a test if possible, at least have a personal, thorough-going talk with them?

Would you give them the job just because they were handshakers, braggers, promisers? Would you employ them just because they vilified someone else who was competing for the same job?

I knew a fellow who hired a see-

New Castle Office Members Share In Huge Celebration

One hundred residents of the New Castle area today participated in the observance of the 75th anniversary of the Prudential Insurance company.

The occasion was marked by simultaneous gatherings of some 75,000 persons throughout the United States, Canada and Hawaii.

In New Castle the party took the form of a luncheon held at the New Castle Country club and attended by the entire staff of the local Prudential office, members of their families and guests, including Mayor John F. Haven.

Highlighting the program was a special broadcast from the company's headquarters in Newark, N. J., which was heard by the local gathering.

Extending birthday greetings to the far-flung Prudential "family", Carrol M. Shanks, the company's president, traced the growth of the firm into one of the world's great enterprises.

He introduced Vice Presidents Harry J. Volk and Robert M. Green, head of the company's regional home offices in Los Angeles and Toronto, respectively, and Vice President Charles Fleetwood, who is to direct southwestern operations from a new regional home office to be established in Houston. They added their birthday greetings to those of the president.

According to Stanley G. Smith, manager of the local office, this is the first time that the entire Prudential organization has been able to join in a simultaneous celebration. He estimated that similar parties were held today in approximately 400 cities. In every case the parties were highlighted by a special birthday cake.

The luncheon here included Prudential personnel from the Sharon and Grove City branches of the New Castle office and members of their families.

Gaitskell, who was chairman at most of the sessions, is sitting in as chancellor of the exchequer in the absence of Sir Stafford Cripps and he may take the job permanently if Cripps' ill health forces him to retire.

As with President Truman's point 4 program, this is a signpost to a decent and a peaceful world. And that remains true even though it appears sometimes as though all signs pointing to reason and moderation will be ignored.

Radio Station Is Ordered Off Air

WASHINGTON, Oct. 13.—(INS)—The Federal Communications Commission has ordered radio station WTUX, Wilmington, Del., to cease operations because of past broadcasts which allegedly aided in illegal horse race betting.

The FCC gave Port Freie, Inc., 90 days in which to wind up its station's affairs and to get "off the air" at that time.

The order came in the form of a denial of the application of WTUX owners for a license renewal. FCC commissioners Robert F. Jones and George Sterling dissented.

At the same time, the FCC also denied the station's petition to reopen the record and hold further hearings in the case.

Church Honors New Minister

Rev. Floyd Duncan Welcomed At Croton

Rev. Floyd Alexander Duncan, was officially welcomed as pastor of the Croton Methodist church, Thursday evening at a reception which drew a large assemblage to the church.

Transferring to this district from Virginia, Rev. Duncan was not only new to the church but new to the conference, but with his warm personality, he has already won for himself a place of high regard in the hearts of all who have become acquainted with him.

James Snow, superintendent of the church school who was chairman of the well arranged program, presented Dr. J. P. Graham, president of the New Castle Ministerial Association, who offered the invocation. Miss Betty Jane Nelson pleased the audience with her solo selection, "The Lord Is My Shepherd." Dr. Graham in his own inimitable manner fittingly welcomed Rev. Duncan to the city and the fellowship of the ministerium

Welcomes New Pastor

A duet selection "What A Friend We Have In Jesus" was sung by Joan McQuiston and Barbara Gormley. As chairman of the executive board, Theodore McCreary welcomed the new pastor on behalf of all the church organizations. Albert Rowles, of the Croton M.Y.F. and president of the Grove City M. Y. F. welcomed the new pastor in behalf of the church and district youth. Various church organizations were also heard from. Rev. Duncan responded appropriately and gave the benediction.

A social time was enjoyed in the church dining room. The tables were beautifully appointed with mums and other fall flowers. Serving were: Mrs. Hester Benninghoff, Mrs. Helen Mulliken, Mrs. Mary Trover and Mrs. Dorothy Henry. Success of the event goes to the general committee, James Snow, chairman; Mrs. Jess Hinkson, Mrs. Fred Hill, Mrs. C. F. VanHorn, Mrs. John Wilson, Mrs. C. R. Campbell and Fred Kenehan.

William Crawford of Seattle, Wash., was a special guest of the evening and spoke briefly. Due to a Cribbs Home conference in Franklin other district Methodist pastors were prevented from attending the welcoming reception.

On October 13, 1946, Mrs. Maluck gave birth to a boy. One year to the day prior to that, another child of hers died.

Puppet Show Is Feature Of P.T.A. Wampum Meeting

Wampum unit of Parent-Teacher Associations met in the music room of the school at 8 o'clock on Thursday evening. Group singing was enjoyed under the direction of Elmer Kanagy, with Miss Ann McMillin as piano accompaniest.

Mrs. Hartley Allen, program chairman, introduced Charles Lutton of Ellwood City. Young Mr. Lutton presented his own puppet show which was in the form of a radio talent program complete with master of ceremonies and contestants. The tiny figures readily responded to the clever pulling of strings by their master.

The president, Mrs. Edward Butler, presided over the business meeting. Miss Margaret Rishel and Mrs. E. L. Hennon were appointed delegates to the county council.

P.-T.A. units have been approched by Red Cross headquarters to ask for volunteers for classes in home nursing. The course is "Care of the Sick in the Home" and is a 12-hour course with 32 procedures being taught. There were enough volunteers for such a class in Wampum.

Declares Need Shown For U. N. Armed Forces

LAKE SUCCESS, N. Y., Oct. 13—(INS)—The top United Nations authority on Korea said today that the Korean war proves there must be an International Armed Force to fight aggression.

Col. Alfred G. Katzin, the South African field officer who served as liaison between Gen. Douglas MacArthur and UN Secretary General Trygve Lie, made the statement in a broadcast over the United Nations radio.

His statement, which was beamed around the world, paid tribute to all the United Nations troops who fought in Korea and particularly to MacArthur and the American and South Korean troops under his command.

He called for "humanitarian" aid for the war-ravaged country in which villages and towns have been destroyed, agricultural areas ripped up and thousands forced to flee their homes. He declared:

"If there is perhaps one significant lesson that must be learned more than any other, it is that this war, waged in support of peace and security, has vindicated completely those who planned the structure of the United Nations and who wished to see the establishment of international security forces to help the victims of aggression wherever and whenever such help might be needed.

"The lesson of Korea is that there must be available to the United Nations elements of a permanent security force, preferably with common weapons and logistical support held prepared by member states to be called upon as a collective force whenever needed."

County Fire Fighters Meet

Election Will Be Held Next Month

Scott township was accepted into membership by the county association, and an invitation will be extended to the various industrial departments to join the association, it is announced.

Reports were made on the blood donor program, and the various departments will be contacted as to the time and place of donating, two departments having been called for this month.

Luminous arm bands were distributed to the fire police, which will be worn at all fires, thus identifying fire police at night.

Korean Cabinet In Extraordinary Session On Issue

(BULLETIN)

SEOUL, Oct. 13. — (INS)—The Korean cabinet held an extraordinary meeting today to consider resolutions of the United Nations interim committee which would limit President Syngman Rhee's government to authority south of the 38th Parallel and call for general elections for the entire country.

There was no official announcement following the cabinet meeting but government leaders indicated they considered the United Nations action "hasty."

No one in Seoul has seen the complete text of the UN resolutions but Minister of Information Helen Kim blasted this turn of events. She told newsmen:

"The United Nations in 1948 recognized the South Korean government as the only lawful government. I cannot see how they can now ignore the sovereignty of the Republic of Korea from the legal or practical standpoint.

"We cannot believe the United Nations ever intended to come in here as a government, especially while the present government born of them exists."

An official government statement is expected to be issued Saturday.

The South Korean government cannot immediately make representations to U.S. Ambassador John J. Muccio because he left Seoul Thursday to attend the Truman-MacArthur mid-Pacific conference.

Young Progressives Meet For Session

Young Progressives, junior members of the Sons of Italy, held a meeting in the Sons of Italy hall, with John Cagnetti presiding.

A report was given by Joe Tuscano concerning the hayride held recently. Plans for a halloween party to be held Saturday, October 20, were made. Co-chairmen will be Grace Geminiani and Emma Jannetti.

It was also decided that initiation for new members will take place on Tuesday, October 24. Chairman will be Jilda De Polis. Plans were discussed for the formation of a bowling league which will begin in the near future.

Mrs. H. Hoffmaster Rites On Monday

Funeral services for Mrs. Hilary H. Hoffmaster, 5119 Market street, Youngstown, O., will be conducted Monday at 3:30 p.m., from the Hofmeister Memorial Funeral home, Youngstown, where friends may call Sunday from 2 to 4 p.m. and also that evening. Burial will take place in Lake Park cemetery.

Mrs. Hoffmaster, nee Olive A. Mayberry, died today at 6:30 a.m. at the home of her nephew, Gene Mayberry, where she resided. Born July 30, 1856, in Bessemer, she was a daughter of William and Hannah Kildoo Mayberry. When a young girl, she moved to Youngstown. Her husband preceded her in death 33 years ago.

Mrs. Hoffmaster was a member of the Delason Avenue Methodist church, the Maccabees and the Miriam Chapter of the Order of Eastern Star, being probably the oldest O. E. S. member in Youngstown.

Survivors are: three children, Lyle, Youngstown; Warren, Barberton, O., and Mrs. Irma Thomas Claysville, Pa., 14 grandchildren and 12 great-grandchildren.

Another witness, Richard Samuel, son of Philadelphia Mayor Bernard Samuel, was served with a subpena and ordered to bring along all his financial records.

The Kefauver committee will meet behind closed doors. Kefauver arrived last night from New York. Expected to join him are Sen. Herbert R. O'Conor (D) Md., and Sen. Alexander Wiley (R) Wis.

Sharon Man To Teach In Bible Course Here

Howard C. Maxwell, of Sharon, Pa., has been secured by the New Castle Council of Churches to teach a class in Bible School Administration during the Leadership Training Conference.

Mr. Maxwell, though kept busy as a detective on the Sharon police force, has made Sunday school work his hobby. As a result, has become acquainted with the problems associated with the Sunday School Administration and has given much time and thought to the possible solution to these problems. As a superintendent of a Sunday school he has tried many new ideas and is therefore qualified to pass them on to others.

The meetings sponsored by the council will be open to all who desire to attend. Meetings will be held in the Epworth church beginning October 17 at 7:30 p.m. Anyone desiring to enroll should notify either the secretary or the pastor of his or her church. The registration fee will be three dollars for the six-weeks' period.

Almira Home Donation Day

"Open house" will be observed at the Almira Home on Wednesday, Oct. 25. The hours will be from two to four o'clock in the afternoon and from seven to 10 in the evening. Music will be furnished in the evening by an orchestra.

Witness Under Heavy Guard In Florida Probe

MIAMI, Oct. 13.—(INS)—A former deputy sheriff who told a crime-smashing grand jury startling details of gambling and political corruption in Florida remained under 24-hour protective guard today pending another appearance before the jurors.

George Patton, one-time chief bookie raider for the Dade County sheriff's office, has vowed to "spill everything" about the "sickening filth" of racketeers' influence of public officials and politicians.

Robert Givens, special attorney for the grand jury, said the "almost incredible" story already told by Patton involves New York and Chicago racketeers as well as Miami figures.

Secret Hideaway

Patton is being guarded in a secret hideaway by two grand jury investigators. The 31-year-old ex-deputy and wartime OSS agent was subpoenaed late yesterday to appear before the Senate crime investigating committee at a later date.

Givens said Patton is being guarded because the grand jury wants to prevent a repetition of the recent Chicago slaying of ex-police Lt. William Drury, who was murdered just before he was to have testified before the Kefauver committee.

The Miami Daily News said Patton's grand jury testimony will involve "high state officials." The newspaper added:

"Patton's decision to talk may expose the entire set-up of how the Chicago Capone gang gained control of south Florida rackets after the 1948 gubernatorial election."

Big Program About Ready

State Commission To Present Big Legislative Program

HARRISBURG, Oct. 13.—(INS)—The joint state government commission is completing one of the more ambitious legislative programs in its 13-year history...The 22 subjects it was directed to study by the General Assembly at the close of the 1949 session embraces virtually every field of state government....The fact-finding agency, composed of Republicans and Democrats, will make its legislative recommendations shortly before the 1951 session opens in January...The commission, which leans on the assembly for funds, does the bulk of its work between sessions of the legislature and its program reflects the scores of public meetings held throughout Pennsylvania in the interim between sessions...The commission started out in 1937 charged with studying a comparative handfull of subjects as a forerunner to a small but decisive program but the scope of its work was increased when it became apparent to legislative leaders that it developed bipartisan proposals more readily acceptable to lawmakers.

The Pennsylvania Civil Aeronautics Commission reports that Fulton and Montour counties are the only ones in the state lacking licensed commercial airfields.... Elsewhere in the state, the number varies between one and 19 fields...The commission keeps an eye on 202 licensed commercial airports, 179 private landing fields, 12 seaplane bases, one helicopter field and one glider field...A three-year airport development program in Pennsylvania started in 1947 with federal and local expenditures estimated at $32,455,000. Not all airports are eligible for federal aid while others, run by municipalities, sometimes choose to operate on local funds.

Sen. George B. Scarlett (R) Chester, has come up with a campaign to persuade voters in this county to go to the polls in large numbers November 7...Scarlett, who doubles as GOP chairman in the county, is shaping his publicity to point out the one-vote margins which have been important in history and then calls for each voter to get 10 other voters to go to the polls...The 10 contacted originally, under the Scarlett plan, each are asked to go after 10 other voters. Scarlett is telling Republicans and Democrats of the stake each has in what he calls "the biggest going concern on earth" which he labels "America's free enterprise economy"...The one-vote margins Scalett points to include the electoral college's selection of Thomas Jefferson and John Quincy Adams for the presidency, the election of Rutherford B. Hayes to the presidency by a special electoral commission after balloting had been questioned, the admission to the Union of California, Idaho, Oregon, Texas and Washington and the passage in 1940 of the World War II draft act.

The decision of Auditor General Weldon B. Heyburn to modernize the document storeroom in the basement of the main capitol building has opened the door to history dating back to 1782...When workmen started to move the document containers, many of them rusted to near-disintegration, they found official papers covering affairs running back to colonial days....A small, special section has been set up to handle the restoration and reclassification...Heyburn plans to exhibit the material in a special room in the finance building when the restoration task has been completed.

Suspension Placed On Maj. Gen. Anderson Lifted By Air Force

(BULLETIN)

WASHINGTON, Oct. 13—The Air Force today lifted a suspension imposed September 1 on Maj. Gen. Orvil A. Anderson on charges that he advocated a "preventive" war against Russia.

Anderson, veteran flyer and balloon expert, was assigned to the command of the 3750th Technical Training Wing at Shepherd Air Force base, Wichita Falls, Tex.

He was commander of the Air University at Maxwell Field, Montgomery, Ala., at the same time of his suspension.

An Air Force spokesman said he did not know whether Anderson has received a letter of reprimand, but that the incident is considered closed.

Anderson's new orders are effective October 16. He succeeds Brig. Gen. Emil C. Keil, who will be given another command.

Observers noted that Anderson was succeeding an officer of lower rank, but the Air Force had no comment on this point.

Anderson was quoted in newspapers as saying that he could "wipe out Russia's five A-bomb nests in a week" if he were given the order to do it. Other remarks attributed to him were interpreted as advocating a "preventive" war.

The spokesman said Anderson's new unit deals with radar and other forms of electronics as well as many other technical matters concerning the Air Force.

Don't Burn Leaves On Paved Streets

Persons caught doing so are liable to penalties contained in a city ordinance which prohibits burning leaves on streets.

Tri-County Medical Program Present

Fifteen physicians of the Lawrence County Medical society attended the joint tri-county program and dinner meeting of medical societies held Thursday at the Brodhead hotel, Beaver Falls.

In addition to Lawrence county, representatives were in attendance from the Mercer and Beaver County Medical societies.

At 2:30 p. m. the sessions got under way with a scientific program, the subject being "Carcinoma of the Breast". Speakers in charge of the program were Dr. Jacob A. Glassman, Dr. Alex Ragins and Dr. Morton Baker, all of Chicago, Ill.

A dinner meeting was enjoyed after the scientific program, at 6:30 o'clock. It was decided to have a similar program and meeting in 1951, with Mercer county being selected as the meeting place.

Dr. Thomas Uber is the local chairman of the program committee, who completed arrangements for the local physicians who attended the program and dinner.

School Guards Prove Vigilant

Watchmen employed by the city to guard children against accident while journeying to and from school are extraordinarily vigilant these days, mindful that leaves have fallen on slippery streets, which may cause cars to skid.

They see that all cars are at a complete stop prior to letting children cross streets. The service was instituted by Mayor Haven when he was police chief.

Hunt Gunman For Harrisburg Holdup

HARRISBURG, Oct. 13.—(INS)—State and city police in central Pennsylvania were searching today for a bold, young gunman who held up a loan office in Harrisburg and escaped with $176.

Harrisburg detectives said they had only meager clues to track the bandit who walked into the Prodence Credit and Loan Company late yesterday and flashed a gun on Lloyd Keiter, the assistant manager.

Keiter said the thief took the money from a drawer but missed $600 in cash lying in an open safe.

Keiter said the holdup man was a young Negro, wearing a brown felt hat, light tan jacket, and brown trousers.

Two Letters Of Far More Value

NEW YORK, Oct. 13.—(INS)—A Chicago business man has paid $2,500 for President Truman's epistolary remark about the Marine corps and feels he has copped a bargain.

The President's letter and its price brings into sharp focus the worth or value of two other recent letters that also hit the front pages, one just before and one just after publication of Mr. Truman's billet doux.

So far as I can learn, no citizen has interested himself in the preservation of the other two letters, written by ordinary men under extraordinary circumstances, and expressive of so much that is best and finest in what we like to think of as the national character.

Both letters were written by young American soldiers in Korea and I have yet to meet a man or woman who read them through without weeping.

Belong In Library Of Congress

They belong, these two letters, in the library of Congress, as part of the heritage of the American people, where all who run may read and see what spiritual no less than physical fortitude lived in the men who fought democracy's battles in our time.

The first letter was written by Pfc. John J. McCormick, 28, to his two daughters, Rose Marie, 6, and Joan, 3, in Collingdale, Pa. The letter was delivered three days after the War department had notified his wife that Pfc. McCormick had died in action.

The premonition of death must have been strong in the youthful father and husband as he wrote his children and his wife a simple, tender letter that pulses with the trio of fundamentals always described as the basis of American life: love of God, love of country and love of family.

Knew Why He Was Fighting

Pfc. McCormick knew what he was fighting for and he could put it on paper so it could be understood by two little girls—and tear the heart out of his countrymen.

"I want you both to know that I'd be with you if I could," he wrote, "but there are a lot of bad men in the world, and if they were allowed to do what they wanted to do, little girls like you wouldn't be allowed to do what they want to do, little girls like you wouldn't be allowed to go to church on Sunday or be able to go to the school you wanted to.

"So I have to help fight these men and keep them from coming where you and mummie live. It might take a long time, and maybe daddy will have to go and help God up in heaven, and if I do, I always want you both to be good for mummie, because she is the best mummie in the whole wide world."

Pfc. McCormick not only gave his life for his country, but he left it a message that is part of the great American heritage. It belongs to the nation, no less than to his grieving family.

The letter of Pfc. Bob Mullen, 19, belongs in the national archives, too. This nineteen-year-old boy—no, man—wrote his parents in Boston that he had lost both legs in the Korean fighting and added:

"The only thing I am worried about is you folks. I don't want you to be worrying and going around with tears in your eyes."

And then Pfc. Mullen appended one more line, and if he had been Shakespeare himself, he couldn't have expressed courage, self-reliance and hope more beautifully:

"The best years of my life are ahead of me."

If President Truman's opinion of the Marines is worth $2,500, these two letters are above the price of rubies. Let us hope that some day they will find their way to the library of Congress. They are both simple and unpretentious, but simple with the same kind of American simplicity that animated President Lincoln's immortal letter to Mrs. Ella Bixby, who lost five sons in the Civil war.

There is nothing the nation would not give today to possess the original of the Lincoln letter. But we are careless of our heritage, and this letter was vanished—either lost or destroyed.

I wish we tended to preserve our treasures instead of our trash.

Payne is a member of the Marine Reserves and served four years during World War I with the First Marine division, being assigned in the Pacific area.

Your New Social Security

By MYRON MILBOUER

(Manager of the New Castle Social Security Office)

(Number 11)

The child in the average American home will have greater insurance benefit payments under the Amended Social Security law.

While a child's benefit in life cases is still one-half of the insured worker's insurance amount, provisions relating to the definition of child, dependency of child, and the child's benefit amount are liberalized.

Beginning this September, on deaths of the insured worker occurring at any time after 1939, an only child's benefit payment is three-fourths of the deceased worker's insurance payment. In case there is more than one child in the family, each child's benefit is one half of the worker's insurance payment, plus one-fourth of that benefit divided by the number of children.

Under the new law, the adopted child of a deceased insured worker need no longer meet any time requirement to qualify as a "child" for social security benefits. In life cases, a stepchild who is later adopted by his stepparent, may count time before and after adoption toward the required time period. That time period is now three years before the day of application.

The amended law makes many changes in the provisions concerning a child's dependency on his mother and on a stepparent. A child will be considered dependent on his natural or adopting mother, regardless of the father's presence in the home, or the father's contributions to the child's support. This applies in cases where the mother was currently insured when she died or became entitled to retirement insurance benefits. A child can be deemed dependent on his mother (including a stepmother) if the mother was furnishing at least half of the child's support at the time of her death or retirement.

A child is considered dependent on a stepfather with whom he was living, or who was furnishing at least half the child's support, even though the child's real father was also contributing toward the child's support. The benefit amount for one or more surviving children is increased by one-fourth of the worker's insurance amount divided equally among the children.

My next article will explain the new definition of "employee" which will give social security coverage to approximately 400,000 additional workers.

May Not Need To Raise Draft Age Limit, Officials Hope

By CHARLES B. SEIB
(I. N. S. Staff Correspondent)

WASHINGTON, Oct. 13.—Selective service officials are optimistic today that the three-million-man armed force President Truman has asked can be achieved without raising the present 26-year draft age ceiling.

They expect, however, that in order to maintain the present 19-through-25 draft program there will have to be a "tightening" of regulations on deferment for dependents.

Current plans to try to maintain the present age ceiling were disclosed Wednesday night by Draft Director Hershey in a speech before a group of employment service workers.

Delay Raising Age Limit

Hershey said that the present draft age span offers the most fertile source of military manpower and commented:

"I've been driven to conclude that we would be wise in the present state of stress to stay as low as we can and not move up until we have to.

"I believe we can achieve and maintain the three-million-man force by staying below the 26-year ceiling, if we defer everybody who has to be deferred and don't defer anybody who does not have to be deferred."

Hershey predicted that a "great many problems" would arise if the draft ceiling is lifted. He pointed out that an increasing number of veterans — now draft exempt — would be encountered in the 26 to 35 age group and also a greater number of men with dependents.

Volant Lions Plan Special Programs

Volant Lions were host to members of clubs in the local zone at their dinner Tuesday evening. Thirty-eight were present from New Castle, New Bedford, Pulaski, and Grove City.

Two speakers were preented following the dinner. They were Dr. Button of the Bashline-Rossman hospital of Grove City who gave a short talk on diabetes, its causes and cures, and Mr. Dickson, of the Lawrence Savings and Trust company. The latter spoke in detail on the provisions of the new Social Security Act recently passed by Congress. He outlined the requirements for eligibility for receiving added benefits, told who would come under the new act both individually and in corporations.

During the business meeting conducted by President Paul Shaw plans were made for future events. The annual Ladies' Night, the Buckwheat Rodeo, and the Christmas Party are among those scheduled for the months before the holidays. The first will be held October 24 with a very interesting program prepared. Congressman Louis Graham will be speaker of the evening and music will be supplied by young people of Westminster college. The Rodeo date has been set for December 12, and no definite date has been decided for the Kiddies' Christmas Party which is an annual event.

FIRST SIGN OF CHRISTMAS

CHESTER, Pa., Oct. 13.—(INS)—Here's the first sign of Christmas:

A Chester department store advertised today for a "fat and jolly" man to play Santa Claus in the store's toyland during the yuletide season.

Besides being "fat and jolly" the department store Kris Kringle must "love small children naturally".

Community Chest Red Feather Is Explained

Since the beginning of the Community Chest campaigns in this community, we have heard about the Red Feather agencies that the Chest serves.

Most persons know the wonderful services that these agencies do for the community, but many probably do not know the origin of the Red Feather in connection with the agencies.

Long ago in China a robe was made of red feathers and awarded to the person who had performed a special service for his community.

In Europe a red plume in a knight's helmet was a sign that he was true and brave.

In the days of Robin Hood a red feather was awarded to each of his Merry Men for a good deed performed.

In America it was necessary for a young Indian to capture a feather from a live eagle to win his place in the Council of Braves. This feather was dyed red and worn in his scalplock as a sign of the responsibility he must now assume.

Today the Red Feather stands for the Community Chest and the services which it supports. It is an announcement to the world that we believe in the democratic way of life in which the red feather services for health, welfare and recreation benefit everybody.

Try And Stop Me

By BENNETT CERF

Winston Churchill, like all men who do a dozen things at the same time, is always pressed to keep appointments and arrive at stations, piers, and airports on time. Asked why he missed so many trains and boats, Mr. Churchill explained, "I'm a sporting man, my boy. I always give them a fair chance to get away."

Vincent, the barber, noticed that his customer was grimacing, and asked solicitously, "What's the matter? Isn't the razor taking hold?" "It's taking hold all right," complained the customer, "but it just ain't letting go again."

Undoubtedly you have heard the story of the exasperated usher, badgered by an ill-mannered dowanger who demanded a special seat for a murder mystery film, who whispered in her ear just as the picture began, "The butler did it." One of the pickets outside a reducing parlor whose staff went on strike adopted a somewhat similar technique. He marced up and down in front of the shop's entrance, waving a sign that read: "Don't patronize this place. The proprietress is fatter than you are."

The strip tease was invented by the Chinese—but it never ended in complete nudity.

Folks Of Fame

Viscount James Bryce was born in Belfast, Ireland, May 10, 1838. He was called to the bar at Lincoln's Inn, London, in 1867. He served as a member of parliament, and was appointed secretary of state for foreign affairs in 1886. In 1907 he was made ambassador to the United States. He had visited the United States many times previously and was known for his The American Commonwealth. Other books he authored were Impressions of South Africa, Studies in History and Jurisprudence, Studies in Contemporary Biography, The Hindrances to Good Citizenship and many others. He died Jan. 22, 1922.

Antonio Stradvari was born in 1644, and was a pupil of Nicolas Amati, violin maker, in 1666. He soon began making violins under his own name, and in 1684 began to produce larger models and beautifying them in various details. His "long" patterns represented a complete innovation in the proportions of the instrument. He also made some beautiful violincellos. His method of violin making created a standard for subsequent times. Many of his instruments are in use today, and possession of one is a rare privilege as they bring enormous prices. He died in 1737.

State Capitol

Kunzig May Be Elected

Being Groomed For Higher Place In State Is Report

HARRISBURG, Oct. 13.—(INS)—Capitol hill political observers note that Deputy Attorney General Robert L. Kunzig is being groomed for the future high echelon of the state Republican party. . . . They point to some of the cases assigned Kunzig since he joined the justice department in January 1948 as assistant deputy attorney general. . . . Most of the cases, though of no more legal importance than hundreds of others, tended toward the sensational and Kunzig's name often was in print. . . . He has investigated bribery and corruption in politics, was appointed especially by Governor Duff in investigate statewide relief chiseling which led to several convictions and he has prosecuted Toni Nuss, the "red queen of Pittsburgh". . . . If and when the case involving Dorothy Albert, Pittsburgh high school teacher is dismissed for alleged Communist activities, reaches the courts, Kunzig will prosecute the case for the commonwealth. . . . Topping the list is Kunzig's appointment as head of the department's newly created anti-Communist section.

Former Judge John S. Fine if elected governor will be faced with at least one problem in which he'll have to use the wisdom of Solomon. . . . The problem is posed by the more than 15,000,000 cubic yards of culm dredged from the Schuylkill river which has industrial use. . . . The culm is owned by the commonwealth and it will be sold in direct competition with the coal mining interests in Fine's home county of Luzerne.

The state game commission promises good duck hunting for Pennsylvanians this season despite the grim forecast of national wildlife experts this spring. . . . "Plentiful rains over much of the nesting grounds kept potholes and questionable marsh areas wet this summer with the result waterfowl broods came through better than expected," the commission reported. . . . Waterfowl hunters will get their opportunity to try their luck on marshes, rivers and lakes when the duck, goose and coot season opens tomorrow. . . . Migratory bird hunters were warned by the commission there is no 1950 season on Wilson's snipe, snow geese, brant and swans. . . . The commission said federal regulations governing migratory birds were drawn unusually late this year and therefore do not appear on leaflets accompanying the hunting licenses for 1950.

Fred E. Goodhart, highways department safety engineer, met the law of averages recently. . . . The incident extended back to 1916 and covered 500,000 miles embraced by the districts safety record. . . . It happened on a Harrisburg street when one young driver sped through a red light and clipped Goodhart's car. . . . However, the accident did not interfer with the safety records chalked up by district nine of the state highways department which was ranked first in safety among all highway industry groups employing 500 or more throughout the nation.

Rubber Roads May Be Stretched Across United States Soon

CLEVELAND, Oct. 13.—(INS)—Highway engineers may soon be stretching rubber roads across the United States.

At least pavements of asphalt and rubber seem near at hand to the 1,2000 scientists attending the 57th internationl meeting of the division of rubber chemistry of the American Chemical society.

Chemists of the Goodyear Tire & Rubber Co. told delegates from all parts of the world in Cleveland that a five to 10 per cent mixture of synthetic rubber in black-top paving would add years of life and serviceability to highways.

The researchers reported that the extra cost would run from $500 to $1,000 a mile and explained that rubber absorbs oils from the asphalt, preventing melting in summer and brittleness in winter.

Former Nurse Is Bequeathed Large Sum In Man's Will

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 13.—(INS)—The former housekeeper and nurse for Charles D. Beaston has been bequeathed a one-third share in the $500,000 estate of the deceased one-time Philadelphia city official.

The grant to Mrs. Eva Catnach 52, was contained in the will of Beaston, an expert in the field of garbage disposal plants, who died on July 26 at 82 at his summer home in Ocaen City, N. J.

Mrs. Catnach entered Beaston's service as a housekeeper when his wife, Louisa, died on Feb. 9, 1942 She later acted as his practical nurse.

Around Hollywood

By JAMES PADGITT

(International News Service Staff Correspondent)

HOLLYWOOD, Oct. 13.—Movies have taken on such documentary aspects lately that fans will accept no substitutes for the real article in the way of props and sets.

One harassed film prop expert is Walter Allen of RKO-Radio. His current problem is the correct dressing of sets for "The Gaunt Woman," starring Dana Andrews, Claude Rains and Carla Balenda.

One of these sets represents a fishing village in Newfoundland and eagle-eyed moviegoers can be sure it is authentic in every detail.

Fish drying racks, for instance, are high, pergola-like racks made of spruce and fir trees.

Imported Trees

There was a time when Allen would have made these racks of eucalyptus poles and nobody would have known the difference, but not any more. Allen imported 1500 fir and spruce trees from Washington and Oregon and stripped them of their branches and barks.

After the racks were finished the branches were piled on top as a foundation on which to place the fish to be dried. If eucalyptus poles had been used, closeups would have revealed the absence of knots and nubbins that are there on the fir and spruce.

As head of the studio's "green" department, Allen must be able to provide all trees, shrubs and other growing stuff needed on a set from a meat eating plant to a Tibetan orchid. Furthermore, he must know where to get them for no alibis are accepted.

Need Big Trees

Perhaps things grow bigger and better in California, as boosters claim, but for various reasons Allen had to go out of the state to obtain the vast numbers of Christmas trees he needed for "The Gaunt Woman." It takes 50 years to grow a tree of the size desired in California but only from four to six years to grow the same size tree in the rainy northwest.

He hauled more than 500 fir and spruce trees to Catalina Island to dress the shoreline for location scenes, but first he had to remove a lot of cactus and palm trees that grow on the island.

Another problem was the building of the sod houses which are characteristic of Newfoundland fishing villages. More than eight months before "The Gaunt Woman" went before the cameras Allen placed an order for 10,000 square feet of the sod with a firm that specializes in growing grass of every known variety for the studios.

Creeping Bent

The grass Allen ordered is a variety known as creeping bent. The order stipulated that this grass had to be of various lengths and have no clipped look. After being made into the houses for the film scene, the sod was wet down. Four days later a new growth gave it the appearance of being centuries old.

Practically the only thing that sometimes is not the real articles on film is liquor. Beer does not look like beer at all in movie scenes. Champagne is invariably used instead. And then just to keep things on an even keel, they substitute cold tea for whiskey.

FOR DRESSING

Russian dressing can be made in a jiffy by adding chili sauce and diced canned red pimiento to mayonnaise or creamy salad dressing. This dressing is particularly good on wedges or head lettuce; delicious, too, in a sandwich of chopped tongue and shredded lettuce.

Newspaper Strike Still Unsettled

PITTSBURGH, Oct. 13—(INS)—Pittsburgh continued to get the headlines and news from radio and television today because of a strike which stopped publication of three daily newspapers.

The shutdown began last Oct. 1 when 170 mailers voted to strike for higher wages and continuance of a verbal agreement.

Show Weather Forecast, Is Red, Hot And Blue

Pull up a chair folks. Turn off the radio or television, shove the dishes into the sink and take a listen at this.

We've been needing a little fun around New Castle lately. Something in the way of a flesh and blood show, something with a lot of zing, and music and good looking dolls, and not too much plot.

Something that is red blooded, something hot, something with blue numbers in it.

That's it!

Red, Hot and Blue!

That's the Name

That's the title of the show which will make entertainment history in the Cathedral November 9, 10 and 11. A double barreled performance with a variety show for the first barrel (half to you) and an old fashioned minstrel show for the second.

Red, Hot and Blue will be presented by the New Castle Rotary Club on the dates mentioned, the net proceeds of which will go towards the Rotary charity fund.

Not only will it be composed of New Castle singers, dancers, and other entertainers but it will be directed by a New Castle man who has been in the business for years and is now located here again.

Lee has a deft touch with shows. Over the United States he has produced entertainment that has delighted a lot of people. Someone suggested it was about time we had a show, the Rotary Club agreed with the idea and then asked Lee Winter if he would do the honors.

Vaudeville If You Please

Somebody tagged the name Variety Show on the first half but it's still vaudeville. A lot of acts by local folks and you would be surprised to know the talent that is kicking around the old town.

Singing, there'll be a bale of it. Tap dancing, interpretative dancing, juggling, comedy skits, the whole thing sounds like something out of the old Palace in New York.

Doesn't seem the thing to do to tell you everything about this extravaganza just now. You know, all about the tickets, the price, the names of the entertainers. After all you'll want some readin' some other night.

So for the present this is the pitch. There's going to be a local talent show on November 9-10-11 in the Cathedral. Sponsored by a New Castle organization, directed by a New Castle man, and presenting New Castle artists.

And all of it for a good cause.

You can't ask for anything better.

Rota Society Has Meeting At Church

Ladies Rota society of the Holy Trinity Polish National Catholic church met Tuesday evening at the church hall, with husbands and children as special guests.

Rev. E. D. Kuzminski, spiritual director of the society, opened the meeting with invocation. The business session was led by the president, Mrs. Al Schultz. A fund raising program was voted upon, to be held in November. Following the business meeting, tasty refreshments were served by Mrs. Charles Olesceyski, Mrs. Joseph Garczynski and Mrs. Michael Miksza. The table was centered in an attractive halloween motif. Later silent movies were shown by Rev. Kuzminski.

The next meeting will be held Tuesday, Nov. 7, in the church hall.

THE FAMILY SCRAPBOOK

By DR. ERNEST G. OSBORNE

THE PUSHING KIND OF PRAISE

Praise can be a good thing or bad. Children are hungry for it. And, in this respect, we grownups are much like children.

Let's look at the Dunham family. Mrs. Dunham counts on praise as one of the major ways to get the Dunham youngsters to do what they should do. She's very good at it, too. Cynthia is a regular little lady. But the other girls don't like her. Mother's commending words seem to be enough to keep Cynthia behaving in a very unchildlike way.

Then there's Bruce Samuels. His father believes that children should concentrate on their school work. And he can't see that there will be much time for play if they do a good job of study. But he doesn't scold, nag or threaten Bruce. His praise does the trick. Bruce admires his dad very much and would rather have approval from him than anything else. Therefore, he's growing up in a one-sided way.

Praise is pretty "strong stuff." We who use it should be sure of our grounds. We should not use it to push our youngsters in ways that are questionable.

Revised Estimates Of Crop Production

HARRISBURG, Oct. 13—(INS)—Revised production estimates of buckwheat, hay, tobacco and peaches on Pennsylvania farms between Sept. 1 and Oct. 1 were announced today by the Agriculture Department.

Greatest gain was noted for tobacco with the estimated yield for the year now pegged at 59,450,000 pounds, a gain of 20 pounds per acre, instead of 741,000 pounds over 1949.

Buckwheat estimates advanced one bushel per acre in the month with the total crop expected to hit 1,784,000 bushels compared with last year's 1,886,000 bushels.

The department predicted a 2,194,000 bushel peach crop, an advance of 28,000 for the month, last year farmers picked 2,451,000 bushels.

Hay production is reported at 3,375,000 tons, an increase of 7,000 for the 30-day period. More than 3,392,000 tons were harvested last year.

There were no changes in estimates of other crops.

Longevity In U. S. Close To Best In The World

NEW YORK, N. Y., Oct. 13.—Longevity in the United States is close to the best in the world, according to the statisticians of the Metropolitan Life Insurance company. The gains since the beginning of the century have been greater in our country than in Australia and New Zealand, world leaders with respect to longevity.

In 1901-1910, average length of life was about six years less than in Australia and nine years less than in New Zealand, the statisticians point out. By 1947, expectation of life for Americans was within ¾ of a year of Australia's and 1¾ years of New Zealand's. Figures for the United States are based on white population for comparability with those of the two other counfries.

Expectation Increases

"The expectation of life at birth in our country increased 16 years for males and 18 years for females since 1901-1910," the statisticians note. "In Australia the corresponding gains were 11 and 12 years, and in New Zealand a little over nine years and 10½ years."

Over-all mortality in the United States is somewhat higher than in Australia and New Zealand, but at some ages we do better than they, according to the statisticians.

"Boys at ages 1-9 years find life safer in our country than in either Australia or New Zealand; in fact, the death rate at these ages is little more than three-fourths that in Australia. For females, mortality is lower in the United States than in Australia at almost every age perior under 40 years; compared with New Zealand, our rates for females are lower at ages 1-4 and 15-29," the statisticians report.

The United States has a lower death rate than Australia for a number of the important infectious diseases, including the principal communicable diseases of childhood, tuberculosis and influenza and pneumonia. On the other hand, we have a higher death rate from the diseases common in middle and later life, such as the heart diseases and cancer and from accidents.

Old-Style Truant Officer On Way Out

ALBANY, N. Y., Oct. 13—(INS)—The old-style truant officer will be on the way out, if one New York State Senator has anything to say about it.

Sen. Thomas C. Desmond, Newburgh Republican, said he planned to introduce legislation "replacing the old-fashioned untrained truant officers with trained teachers or nurses, social workers or other qualified persons trained in child psychology."

The State Senator said he had just completed a nation-wide survey which indicated that about one out of every hundred students is a chronic "hookey player."

'Voice Of America' Jamming Nearly Impossible In '51

COLUMBUS, O., Oct. 13.—(INS)—Jamming the "Voice of America broadcasting stations by the Soivet will be virtually impossible in 1951.

Foy D. Kohler, State department official in charge of the "voice", said in Columbus that by next year the Soviet Union will be "ringed" wtih radio bases, making effective jamming almost impossible.

Kohler, addressing the members of the Central Ohio Foreign Policy association, said the "most colossal jamming network ever devised" is failing to keep the voice from the Russian people.

He estimated that 30 per cent of Russian radio listeners regularly tune in on the voice, which operates 24 hours a day, piercing the iron curtain with 70 programs in 25 languages.

The 41-year-old Ohio State university graudate urged his listeners to take a "long-range view . . . to face Russia armed and united . . . but with cool determination not war hysteria."

He denied that either the State department or the voice were "operating on the assumption that another general war is inevitable."

The prince, living near Paris with his pet dachshund, Tiger, claims she deserted both him and the dog, which he says was once her favorite. (International)

"Little Red School" Will Become Thing Of Past

By LARRY AULDRIDGE
(I. N. S. Staff Correspondent)

COLUMBUS, O., Oct. 13.—A spokesman for the biggest school organization in the country said today the little red schoolhouse will become a thing of the past once the current "reorganization" programs are completed.

Worth McClure, Washington, D. C., executive secretary of the American Association of School Administrators, told International News Service in an exclusive interview that "centralization of the school system will be the answer to many problems."

Dr. McClure, acting as an observer at the fifth national conference of the county and rural area superintendents, added that the schools are faced again with a manpower shortage and the prospects of having the teacher supply curbed by drafting of teacher-candidates.

U. M. T. Is Concern

And, not the least of the school masters' concern is the prospect of universal military training which may be enacted by congress.

Pointing out that "re-organization" of schools will cull out the "better school administrators and teachers," he said that with the manpower shortage teachers could become "concentrated".

The former Washington state school leader who started his career in a "backwoods" classroom for $900 a year said several superintendents "already have lost men to the service." McClure said one superintendent told him he had lost four teachers and another seven.

As for universal military training, McClure had no opinion to offer. However, he said that in a recent conversation with a university professor—"one in the know about the atom bomb"—the college instructor said he had "changed his mind and favored UMT".

Centralization Progress

McClure declared, however, that "the growing edge of the education system is reorganization". He said his own state of Washington and Illinois are out in front in the program and that Ohio, Kansas, Missouri and New York are going ahead.

He pointed out that Utah, Maryland and West Virginia already have established themselves in centralization.

McClure explained that although there is "a lot of emotion and community pride" to oppose school mergers, "the net result is higher standards for all".

At the same time, he said the newly created Kellogg Foundation which will provide $3,000,000 for expanded university faculties and field work will provide a real boost for the school system. He said the foundation will "do for teachers what the American Medical Association has done for doctors", in giving them expert assistance.

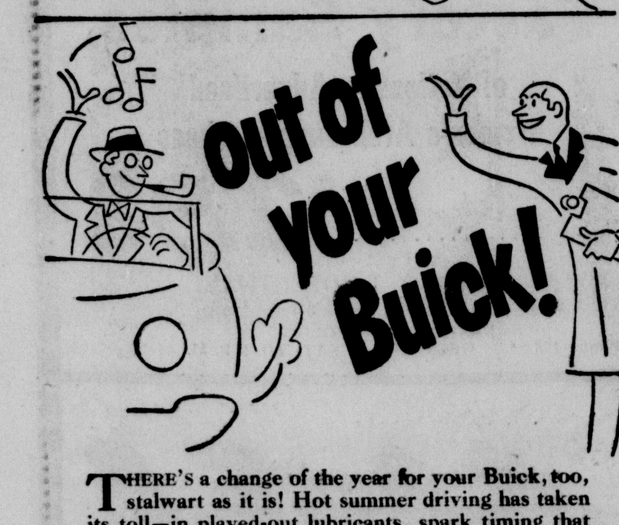
Drive Slow—Children Move Fast!



THERE'S a change of the year for your Buick, too, stalwart as it is! Hot summer driving has taken its toll—in played-out lubricants, spark timing that may have slipped off a notch or two over the many miles, a carburetor that would probably give you better mileage and snap if it were properly adjusted now for fall driving.

Point is—your Buick will feel a lot friskier in the trying days to come if you let your Buick dealer get those summer kinks out of its system now! Just drive in—say you want (1) a fall tune-up and (2) a regular Lubricare—and see how much rewarded you are, for a small fee!

Do it this week, will you? Before the rush, you can be served more promptly.

Around Hollywood

By JAMES PADGITT

(International News Service Staff Correspondent)

HOLLYWOOD, Oct. 13—(INS)—Nick Castle, a studio dance director who ought to know, claims that with but few exceptions beauties who take up dancing should not expect any wolf whistles.

Dancing, the maestro of dance creation and staging insists, causes the femmes to develop muscles in the wrong places.

"See for yourself," Nick advises. "And it isn't a bad hobby—going around looking over girls' legs to see which ones belong to dancers. A dancer's legs look like a ball player's."

Nothing To It

It is Nick's contention that dancing definitely does not do things for the legs. "Unless," he says, "you are originally gifted with fool-proof legs like those possessed by Ann Miller, Betty Grable, Judy Garland, Jane Powell, Eleanor Powell and a few others.

"Professional dancing, with its heart-breaking physical requirements, develops leg muscles to the point where the leg loses that certain symmetry that adds up to cheesecake."

Nick, whose latest chore is creating and staging dances for Fred Astaire and Jane Powell in Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer's "The Royal Wedding," insists that the average gal is born with an average pair of good-looking legs.

"The average girl's legs are developed in much the average manner, to be redundant. Not that I am knocking the average female leg—I have looked at plenty of them in my discerning day. But the dancer's leg is like a golfer's wrist, or an opera singer's chest—over developed.

"You might think I am biting the hand that feeds me by saying dancing does nothing for the legs but it does nice things for the pocketbook."

What—No Music!

The M-G-M biggies thought they could get away with it but they were wrong. The Esther Williams-Howard Keel musical, "Pagan Love Song," was given its sneak preview in San Francisco on Sept. 22.

Patrons, it turned out, liked the picture but they were so mad they were fit to be tied when not a note of the title song was sung.

"The "Pagan Love Song," number, a best selling song in 1929, was used only as background music when the title credits were being run off.

The studio got so many letters protesting the omission that they filmed a sequence in which Keel sings the number. It will be inserted in the picture, finished some months ago.

Efficiency Note

Universal-International comes up with an efficiency note. The studio claims that it is saving 15 hours of labor by putting zippers in the Arabian turbans being worn in "The Prince Who Was A Thief." To wrap a turban properly takes 20 minutes. There are some 50 extras, so the time saving system was adopted.

Bizzare Slaying In Iowa City

Charge Man Stabbed To Death While In Custody Of Police

IOWA CITY, Ia., Oct. 13—(INS)—A cafe owner who police said chased his wife and a waiter through dark Iowa City streets and then shoved two officers aside to stab the man to death faced a murder charge today in the town's second bizzare slaying within a year.

Andy Davelis, 40, was knifed while in police custody yesterday and died minutes later in a police station.

James Lons, 52, the restaurant owner who reportedly screamed threats to "cut the ears off" Davelis during a long auto chase through the university community, pleaded innocent before a Justice of the Peace to an "open" charge of murder.

Admitted Stabbing

Sheriff Pat Murphy said Lons admitted stabbing Davelis, his employe for 15 years, on the lawn of a home where the frightened waiter sought refuge while Lons paused to beat his wife, Viola, 42.

Lons, however, refused to sign a confession and retained attorney Frank Messer—a member of the law firm that successfully defended University of Iowa student Robert Bednasek earlier this year in his murder trial for the strangling his campus sweetheart.

County Attorney Jack C. White said Lons and his brother, George Baculis, "swarmed all over" Davelis when two policemen led him across the lawn to a squad car.

Mrs. Lons was in seclusion in her home today and refused to talk to newsmen. A spokesman at the house said she was "very upset" and had been placed under a doctor's care.

White said Lons told him his wife had been going out with Davelis for some time and said the cafe owner added:

"I went after him to cut his ears off."

Lons' bond was set at $25,000 pending Grand Jury action.

Retires From Erie Railroad

RICHARD GREEN

From New Castle, Richard "Dick" Green, of 221½ South Croton avenue, has been honored by the Erie Railroad. Mr. Green, now retired, was presented a plaque by the railroad for his 27 years with the company.

Presented on Thursday by Fred R. Ball, agent of the Erie Railroad in New Castle, the plaque was signed by P. W. Johnston, president of the company and R. C. Randall, vice-president.

The plaque reads: "In grateful appreciation for faithful and conscientious service rendered by Richard W. Green, who retired from active service with the Erie Railroad after 27 years."

Mr. Green has spent about 50 of his 66 years at railroading. He began as a clerk on the B. & O. in 1900. From 1908 to 1921 he was in the train service of the P. & L. E. Since 1923 he has been receiving and delivery clerk at the West Side Freight station of the Erie Railroad.

Mr. Green will "just relax," for he has been experiencing poor health of late. Mr. and Mrs. Green have been living at their present address since their marriage 20 years ago.

Seeks Immediate Imposing Of Wage And Price Controls

WASHINGTON, Oct. 13.—(INS)—Immediate imposition of price and wage controls won the support today of the Senate's leading advocate of an excess profits tax on corporations.

Sen. O'Mahoney (D) Wyo., chairman of the joint Congressional Economic committee, explained his decision this way:

"Price controls are bunglesome at best. But not having the tax, we ought to have controls right away."

O'Mahoney added that even if Congress pushes through a higher corporation tax when it reconvenes in November, "some controls" will have to go hand-in-hand with any tax curb on inflation.

Two other Senate authorities on price-wage controls said this week that both increased taxes and selective controls are urgently needed.

Sen. Flanders (R) Vt., urged an increase in normal corporation taxes rather than an excess profits tax, coupled with a drive to boost sales of war bonds. Sen. Maybank (D) S.C., Senate Banking chairman, stressed the immediate need for controls.

O'Mahoney told a reporter:

"Our greatest dangers are communism and inflation.

"We can control inflation most effectively through taxation. But we did not get a reasonable tax bill from Congress this year, and until we get one we are going to have to strengthen our controls."

Claim Opposition To Public Housing Increases In Nation

HARRISBURG, Oct. 13.—(INS)—The Pennsylvania Realtors Association claimed today that opposition ot public housing "is growing throughout America."

Throughout the nation in recent weeks, the association reported, 17 communities defeated public housing proposals via public referenda while 27 others rejected the proposition through city councils or commissions.

"This trend is most encouraging especially when power-hungry bureaucrats are using the Korean crisis and our war preparedness program to push their pet socialistic schemes which would ensnarl the nation with unnecessary and crippling controls," the association said.

"In these trying times our economy must be left unhampered by excessive controls to operate in a climate of economic and political freedom so that our productive capacity may achieve the miracle output necessary to meet the needs of the defense agencies."

Robbers Grab $8,000 In Philadelphia

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 13—(INS)—An $8,000 payroll was snatched today by two armed robbers from a clothing firm employe in the Cadillac building at busy Broad street and Ridge avenue in mid-Philadelphia.

Joseph Bannist, 52, the employe, resisted the thugs and during a tussle one of the holdup men fired a shot that just missed him.

Bannister had just gotten the money from a nearby bank. The payroll consisted of bills and coins for 250 workers of Padi Clothes, Inc., in the Cadillac building.

The money was in a paper bag which the thieves grabbed and then fled out a back door.

Farrell Night Riders Invade Stadium Tonight

Ne-Ca Hi Gridders Are Ready For One Of Toughest Games

New Castle high school will play host to the Night Riders of Farrell tonight at Taggart stadium. Kickoff time is eight o'clock.

The Night Riders, operating out of the T-formation, bring a fast ball club here that is equally deadly through the air and by way of the ground.

The backfield is sparked by speedsters Julius McCoy and George Syeda and the passing of Bob Hoffman. Both ends and halfbacks are likely receivers for Hoffman's passes.

Marion Lampkins, 6-ft. 1½-inch right end; Bob Peguese, tackle, and center Bob Ballock are holdovers from last year's Night Rider team that nearly upset the Canes.

The visitors are somewhat lighter than the Red Hurricanes and according to reports are not too strong in reserve strength. They hit fast and hard, however, and are expected to be one of the toughest teams to face the Canes this year.

New Castle is expected to line up the same as in the McKeesport game with the exception of Sam Perrino, who will start at right guard in place of the injured Bob Shellogg.

Just where Ray Latsko will start is hard to say. He has been working at left half and fullback, but can also play right half. He will probably be at left half, with Guy Amodie at right half and John Roussos at fullback.

Bucky Tate is the only member of the Cane team that started against Farrell last year, though Dante DeFalco, John Roussos and John Sansone saw plenty of action.

HURRICANE BREEZES

Approximately 1000 Farrell fans are expected to make the trip to New Castle tonight . . . Farrell will be decked out in their blue jersies . . .Coach Anthony Paulekas told Sharon boys are getting fired slowly for the New Castle game and should be at their top form for the contest" . . . Farrell followers figure the Night Riders have a better than even chance to win tonight's fray . . . The field at Taggart stadium was in pretty bad shape Thursday and even if there is no rain today, it will probably be a slow field.

The months of September and October not only bring falling leaves but often the falling heads of baseball managers and this year the beheaded may total six.

Joe Commesso, Bessemer halfback, took the opening kickoff and raced 93 yards untouched down the middle to give Bessemer a one touchdown margin over Zelienople last night at Bessemer. The 'Zelie Golden Bears led temporarily, but gave up a touchdown in the second period to lose, 13 to 7.

Commesso might well have been alone on the field for all the attention given him as he streaked almost 100 yards for the opening score. There was no one within striking distance of him. Schaville missed the extra point.

The Golden Bears gave no indication of crumbling here, however, and clever ball handling by Soltesz and bruising running by English, commandeered a march of 60 yards for the only Zelienople score. English traveled 23 yards with a pitchout, and was tackled over the goal line. Ketterer kicked the point and Zelienople led 7 to 6 at the quarter.

Shuluga Recovers Fumble

Shuluga, Bessemer tackle, recovered a Golden Bear fumble on the kickoff and the Cementers stormed 38 yards for the winning score. Schaville and Pezzuolo ran strong side plays to the ten where Pezzuolo bulled over. Schaville passed to Galiano for the extra point. The half ended 13 to 7 Bessemer.

A poor second half kickoff put Zelienople in scoring position on the Bessemer 45. The Butler county team then stormed to the Cementer nine-yard line but Hogan was hit hard and lost the ball which rolled to the 15, where DeArment recovered. The third quarter ended 13 to 7, Bessemer ahead.

After trading punts in the final period, Mooney Schaville broke loose for 45 yards and was pushed out of bounds on the Zelienople 20. Three passes missed their mark and the Bears took over.

The determined Bears then varid their attack and began trapping Bessemer guards to send their halfbacks through for sizeable gains. Hogan caught a pass from Soltesz for 20 yards and Zelienople had moved to the Bessemer 19.

Schaville then intercepted a pass to cut short the rally.

Hogan, English and Soltesz were rough all evening for Zelienople and Tom Shuluga took lineman laurels for Bessemer.

New York Yanks Top 49'ers 29-24

NEW YORK, Oct. 13.—(INS)—The New York Yanks are in sole possession of the National Football league's American division lead today, but only because of their last-period recuperative powers.

The Yanks scored twice in less than five minutes midway through the final quarter last night to subdue the San Francisco '49ers, 29 to 24, before a rain-spattered crowd of less than 5,000 at Yankee stadium.

Ellwood City Takes Crippled Eleven To Midland Tonight

Midland high school could very well upset Ellwood when the two teams do battle at Midland tonight.

Ellwood backs, Patsy Friello, and Jay Nido, along with right end Tom Burns have been placed on the injured list and may not start. The Wolverines could very easily be pointing to the Ambridge contest a week from tonight, instead of concentrating on Midland.

Midland has run up 87 points against 39, and defeated four out of five foes. California, Class A title-holder in 1949, is the only team to win over Midland this season.

Ellwood has lost only to Bradford, but was tied at Vandergrift.

Patriots Score Second Victory

Benjamin Franklin junior high school defeated Farrell junior hi 26-0 Thursday afternoon at Taggart stadium for the Patriots straight win of the 1950 season.

The Patriots played good ball both defensively and offensively. The entire team played as a unit with no individual standouts. Farrell never got very deep into Franklin territory, while Franklin controlled the ball most of the time.

Frank Paolone scored the first Patriot touchdown in the first quarter on a 40-yard run, with the help of some good solid blocks by his teammates.

Amodie, Burelli Score

Ton. Amodie went over for the second TD later in the first half from the 15-yard line after Patsy Natale recovered a Farrell fumble on about the Farrell 35. Burelli made the extra point, Franklin 13, Farrell 0 .

Harry Walker and Angelo Burelli got off some nice gains in the drive to the 15.

Franklin scored again early in the second half after Jerry Mangino recovered a Farrell fumble on the 35. The Patriots drove down the field and Burelli went over from the one for the score.

The Patriots scored their final tally of the game late in the third quarter on a drive that started on their own 25-yard line. Jimmy Ray rattled off 50 yards during the drive and later went over from the 10 for the touchdown. Ray also made the extra point.

Illinois-UCLA Battle Tonight

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 13.—(INS)—Illinois and UCLA tangle in Memorial coliseum tonight in what has been billed as a rematch of the 1947 Rose Bowl grid classic.

The game is hardly that but it promises to be a good hard, rocksock battle in the continuing pigskin warfare between the Big Ten and the Pacific coast conference.

The Big Ten outfit is rated the favorite, but not by the 45-14 margin by which Illinois triumphed in the bowl four years ago.

Razzano Picks City All-Stars

Oppose Big League Stars Here Oct. 18

John Razzano, local well-known baseball star catcher, of Mahoningtown, has selected 15 young City league All-Stars to take part in the City-County All-Stars and Danny Litwhiler National league All-Stars game at Flaherty field Wednesday, Oct. 18.

Here are the young stars chosen by Razzano: Pete Razzano, Universals, first base; Phil Nerti, West Pittsburg, second base; Don Black, Franks, and Carm DeLeone, Jr., DeCarbos, shortstop; Guy Barbato, St. Margarets, and John Sansone, Ecclesians, third base; Jimmy Janacone, Universals, Tom Costello, Lawrence Indies, and "Bing" Markey, St. Margarets, outfielders; Tony DeFelice, St. Margarets, catch, and the following pitchers; Len Matarazzo, formerly with Youngstown in the Mid-Atlantic league, Jim Snow, Universals, Dick Orlando, Universals, "Bo" Smiley, Indies ,and Wayne Shelar, Indies, also formerly with Youngstown in the Mid-Atlantic league.

Will Work Out Sunday

The City and County All-Stars have arranged a workout for Sunday at two o'clock at Flaherty field and will probably stage an intra-squad game, with Jim Martin handling the county stars and Razzano the city stars.

Attorney Frank Moretti, business manager of the New Castle Citizens Baseball, Inc., who are sponsoring the big league stars attraction here, has announced the following prices: $1.25 for box seats, $1 general admission and 50 cents for all children under 16.

If the weatherman provides a suitable night there will no doubt be a tremendous crowd on hand to greet the big leaguers.

CRUNCHERS WISH GAMES

The East Side Crunchers wish to schedule games for Sunday afternoons. Any teams interested call Tom Clark 2936-J, or Dave Horchler 5345-M, between 5 and 7 p.m.

Tri-County Bowlers Open Season Tonight

Tri-County Duckpin loop gets under way for the 1950 season tonight. Seven teams comprise the circuit, two being from this city, namely, Elliott Steelers and DeCarbos. The Elliotts were champs last season. Rose Mooney is yet captain. Elliotts open against Ambridge on Castle alleys while DeCarbos bowl at Monaca.

The Midlands are the bad lands for those who hope to upset the football dynasties in the big seven and the Missouri valley.

Black Hawks Tie With Canadiens

(By International News Service)

Montreal and the Chicago Black Hawks inaugurated their 1950-51 National Hockey league season last night with a fast 3 to 3 tie as the Canadiens swept from behind with two last period goals.

Ken Mosdell and Lloyd Curry rammed home the scores at 13:23 and 13:38 of the final period at Montreal. A crowd of 14,222 saw the game, which was featured by the sparkling net minding of Harry Lumley, ex-Detroit goalie obtained in an off-season trade by the Black Hawks.

Bethany Is Homecoming Host To Westminster On Saturday

Westminster College's football eleven will be out to even up its win-loss record Saturday when the team travels to West Virginia to meet Bethany College in a homecoming tilt.

Both schools will enter the contest with identical records in play to date. Both have won one while losing two contests. Westminster has defeated Juniata while losing to Slippery Rock and Thiel. The Bisons hold a victory over Marietta and have lost to Carnegie Tech and Davis-Elkins.

The West Virginians have been defeated in their last six meetings with the Titans. Bison Coach Glenn Johnson this year, however, is fielding a veteran team which is expected to give the less experienced Titan eleven a rough time on the field.

Titan Coach Mel Hatzler will rely on a freshman-dominated team in Saturday's game. Six of eleven starters in last week's game at Thiel were freshmen and a like number of first year men are expected to start against Bethany.

Titan gridders this week were being put through intensive drills designed to plug up weaknesses in pass defense—a weakness that has played a vital part in defeats suffered by the Westminster eleven to date.

HERE and THERE IN SPORTS LAND

SMALL AND BIG GAME seasons are not far distant and it is appropriate at this time, to air the misfortunes that befall hunters in the field—deaths and injuries caused by firearms. The fact remains that hunters alone are responsible for accidents, and they alone, can prevent them. One of the biggest factors in the annual killing or maiming of scores of sportsmen is the indiscrimate shooting at anything that moves, in the hope of taking home a game bird or animal. "Look before you shoot" is the perpetual plea of game officials and responsible hunters. Some hunters apparently do not realize that firearms are dangerous weapons. In the hands of a careless individual, a gun takes only a portion of a split second to cause injury, death and grief. Self-inflicted accidents are caused when guns are placed in a dangerous position. A bullet ricochets or a hunter slips and falls while holding a gun improperly. Accidents occurring while loading guns last season took two lives and 26 others were injured. Other accidents took place when hunters mistook others for a rabbit or deer. Some good advice is (1) take time to see that the magazine or chamber are empty before cleaning or handling guns; (2) unload firearms before placing them in an automobile and (3) make sure the target is legal and (4) treat every gun as if it were loaded.

OAKLAND SPORTSMAN'S CLUB reared 93 out of 100 pheasants chicks, 58 of which were cocks, and which were stocked by members of the club and Game Protector Cal Hooper recently. Club members also helped stock some of the pheasants raised by Jack Gerson. The Oakland club plans to winter some of his birds. Andy Conti has direct charge of the Oakland birds and is reported to be an expert in his line. The L.C.S.A. did not stock any of Gerson's birds. . . . George Binder, Ne-Ca-Hi assistant coach and Art Alexander, scout for the Red and Black, said today that Adam Pszenny erred in stating that Mike Banko, Jr., was the only West Pittsburger to attend Ne-Ca-Hi to play collegiate football. "Andy Beres and Joe Scultz played collegiate football," Binder and Alexander report. . . . Adolf Lang who spent the summer at Beverly Lake, Delta, Ont., returned home, Tuesday night, but depart again tonight for Delta to enjoy the Canadian hunting season. Incidentally, he deposited a six pound bass in Here & There's Frigidaire. Adolf knows all of the lakes in Delta vicinity, equally as well as any Canadian guide. . . . One of those who never misses an event at the Elks club, be it Quarterback club, meeting or floor show, is Verne Carr. . . . A raucuous TV set is an ear-ruiner. . . . Time was when Benny McCann, the letter-toter was an umpire in the Lawrence County Baseball circuit, the letter-toter was an umpire in from Elkins Brothers since he smashed out Dutch Culbertson on the Charles-Louis fight card in New York.

CITY HALL FOLK honored Charlie Kennedy, city controller, now on leave, at the New Penn last night. Charlie departs for military service October 17. . . . Johnny Gilliland, former service man and Westminster graduate, has 'lit out' for Florida, proposing to bask in the sunshine while hail, sleet and snow fall hereabouts. . . . Eddie Hoy spied three deer recently at King's Chapel. One fawn was no larger than a canine, he reports. . . . Fans who witness Farrell play Ne-Ca-Hi, tonight, should keep optics on McCoy, six foot, three inch tall passer. He hurls passes while in motion. . . . Art Alexander, who secretaries for the City Baseball league, reports the managers showed so much interest in a recent meeting, not one of them appeared to forecast 1951 plans. . . . If there's anything Heavy Orr likes it is more football. He gridded for W&J in his more spritely day. . . . Bill Klee, Ne-Ca-Hi coaching staff, failed to attend the Tuesday meeting of the Elks Quarterback club. The reason? He had a birthday which was being celebrated at the Klee home.

Mohawks Defeat New Haven 8-3

(By International News Service)

The Cincinnati Mohawks spent most of last season in the American Hockey league cellar but they may be headed upstairs this year.

The Mohawks are now perched on top of the circuit's western division after they whipped New Haven, 8-3, last night to spoil the Eagles' home debut.

Veteran center Jackie Gordon of the Mohawks led the scoring with a three-goal "hat trick".

In the only other league game the Hershey Bears and Springfield Indians fought to a 3-3 tie in an overtime game at Hershey last night.

Harriers Win Third Straight

Dick Rapson Paces Canes To 19-36 Win

New Castle senior high school cross country team defeated Aliquippa 19-36 Thursday afternoon at Castle Hills golf course for its third straight win of the 1950 season.

Richard Rapson finished first in the time of 12 minutes and 18 seconds.

Junior Varsity harriers also defeated the Aliquippa JV's 15-40, with the Cane JV's winning 12 of the first 13 finishes.

Results of the varsity competition:

1. Richard Rapson, N. C.
2. Al Stern, Aliq.
3. Richard Pia, N. C.
4. John McPhillips, N. C.
5. Dave Lewis, N. C.
6. Bill Broaddus, N. C.
7. Chuck Sampson, N. C.
8. Ron Bailye, N. C.
9. Pitroowski, Aliq.
10. Ross, Aliq.

Results of the JV meet were: 1. Maciewski, N. C.; 2. Schekingast, N. C.; 3. Slay, N. C.; 4 McCracken, N C.; 5. Jurina, N. C.; 6. Strehler, N. C.; 7. Badger, N. C.; 8. Moore, Aliq.; 9. Print, N. C; 10. Palumbo, N. C.

Next meet will be at Meadville next Tuesday.

Charles (Rip) Engle is a surprisingly short chap who looks like a footbal coach. Some of the nation's best just don't. He came to Penn State from Brown University where he had achieved much success and established himself as an authority on the winged-T offense.

Drive Slow—Children Move Fast!

Charles Given Champion Belt

NEW YORK, Oct. 13.—(INS)—Ezzard Charles expects to be heavyweight boxing champion "as long as Joe Louis was".

Ezzard said yesterday, when he received the Police Gazette's silver championship belt in New York, that he sees no reason why he can't be the titleholder for a decade or more.

Charles indicated that he will establish a "bum of the month club," just as Louis did. His first title defense is slated for November 30 in Cincinnati, Ezzard's home town, preferably against Freddie Beshore.

Ezzard kayoed Beshore in the 14th round at Buffalo in August. Post morteming his 15-round decision over Louis two weeks ago, Charles said he discovered early in the fight that the former champion was vulnerable to a right cross.

Houtteman Reports For Army Service

DETROIT, Oct. 13.—(INS)—Art Houtteman, star pitcher of the Detroit Tigers, kissed his bride of six days goodbye and reported for induction into the army today.

The young hurler's Friday-the-13th call to duty brought an abrupt end to his brief honeymoon with swimming star Shelagh Kelly, whom he married at Rahway, N. J., last Saturday.

The 23-year-old righthander won 19 games for Detroit this year.

Armstrong could not have whipped such a welterweight as Ray Robinson, but Robinson is the one fighter of these times who would figure to give Armstrong of the late 1930's some trouble.

SPORT SHORTS

The Southeastern and Southern Conferences, which like to boast of having two of the toughest leagues in the country, got caught with their signals down last Jan. 1 and watched Rice march over North Carolina in the Cotton Bowl, Santa Clara whip Kentucky in the Orange Bowl and Oklahoma humiliate Louisiana State in the Sugar Bowl.

Looking back on his way of going, Armstrong was actually a sloppy sort of fighter, the way he stayed in so close and kept swinging his punches in, but he was one of the most effective fighters of all time.

Everett Grandelius, hard-running Michigan State left halfback, had a 5.8 yard-per-try average for two years prior to the 1950 season, based on 669 yards gained rushing on 115 attempts.

Pirates Purchase Pitcher Dempsey

PITTSGURGH, Oct. 13.—(INS)—The Pittsburgh Pirates today announced the conditional purchase of pitcher Con Dempsey from the San Francisco Seals of the Pacific Coast league.

General Manager H. Roy Hamey said the purchase price was $75,000, part of which may be paid with players.

The Pirates will have until 30 days after next season opens to decide whether to keep the 27-year-old righthander.

Dempsey, a 6-foot-4 190-pounder, has been with the Seals three years. His record in 1948 was 16 victories and 11 defeats, in 1949 17 and 14 and 8 and 9 last year.

New York State has more than 20,000 producing oil wells.

RADIO WILL SPEED UP SNOW REMOVAL WORK IN COUNTY

time, as at present when calls are received for snow removal equipment, the equipment may be out on another road and must return to the garage for additional orders. With the radio set-up the snow plows can move from job to job without returning to the central office.

To Erect Antenna

Antenna for the local highway station will be erected on Route 108, the Harlansburg road, near the present Pennsylvania Power company antenna. Operating equipment will be installed in the highway office on Wilmington avenue under the supervision of Mr. Martin and his aides.

It is not known what call letters will be assigned to the local station nor who will be licensed to operate it by the Federal Communications Commission.

Installation of the equipment is done under contract by a firm who does the work throughout the state and handles the needed repairs on all the state owned radio equipment.

The project is just another of the state highway department's modernization program which will give better service to the motorists of Lawrence County and perhaps be a means of saving lives in quicker removal of snow accumulations.

Babson Devotes Attention To Coming U. S. Elections

By ROGER W. BABSON
(Copyright—1950—Publishers Financial Bureau, Inc.)

BABSON PARK, Mass., Oct. 13.—It is amazing that so many millions of people in this "land of the free" have so little idea or concern as to what is done with their hard-earned cash after paying it to the government in taxes. The American people have acquired a reputation for having made democracy work as neither it nor any other system of government has thus far worked in the history of the world. Yet, few of our citizens really know much about how the government spends or what benefits the people actually receive from this vast sum of money.

Roger W Babson

We all should know where our tax dollars are going and whether they are being wisely spent. Our children should know more about money matters, especially as they concern congressmen as they make appeals for re-election. If more congressmen had a better understanding of the value of a dollar and a better appreciation of true social welfare, it would not be so easy for bureaucratic parasites to waste our money.

The Tax Load

In view of the coming elections, I will confine myself here to federal taxes and expenses, though much of what I mention might just as well be applied to state and local government taxes and expenses. Federal taxes have been increasing since the early part of the present century. Naturally, the national growth created the need for expanding our government expenditures; but unfortunately, our government grew bigger, individual and corporate incentive and initiative have been steadily undermined. This has been the fault of our congressmen.

A review of our federal tax structure would reveal an astonishing number of taxes, still in effect, which were enacted as "temporary" measures, throughout the past 50 years. The most recent examples are the obnoxious excise taxes placed on the statute books early in World War II. Our congressmen have added to the tax burden slowly so as to attract a minimum of unfavorable public attention. Now they try to sell us the idea that all these increases were necessary steps in the process of our coming of age as a nation. This is not true.

Time To Be Alert

Now the bureaucrats are asking for more billions of dollars and already framing laws which will make it possible for Uncle Sam to help himself to a much larger share of your income and mine. In these days of inflated values it costs a great deal to carry on a military campaign even in an area like Korea. Thus, I suppose we must be resigned to this demand for more taxes. Let us not however, be so carried away by the tension of the times that we surrender any more of our hard won liberties and rights to the bureaucrats. Let us make our congressmen responsible to us in fact as they are in theory.

Indifference was chiefly responsible for our getting into the jam in which we now find ourselves as far as taxes are concerned. We were too ready to agree to the imposition of additioanl tax burdens in years past because we were high-pressured or cajoled into thinking there was no other course open to us. Businessmen, who knew better, contented themselves with merely denouncing our tax policies, and their protests were largely ignored. I hope we will all be more realistic about taxes in the future and that we will make our voices heard and our wills felt in the coming elections. If we fail to do this, we shall certainly lose more than our dollars in the critical times ahead.

No Money For Unnecessary Things

I do not approve of handing over much of the country's cash to support certain groups or classes of the people at the expense of all the people. That is undemocratic. It is also financially dangerous, especially when we need all our money for productive things. I am not against moderate farm supports for basic farm products, but I am opposed to the indiscriminate use of tax dollars which tends to make dairy or potato farmers a favored class.

A foolhardy farm support program might not break the country financially, in the years ahead but eventually it could lead to the enslavement of the farmers themselves. New and higher taxes we shall probably have. They need not be much higher if each of us will take the time to impress upon those who are now up for election the acute need for drastic cuts in nonessential federal spending.

SMOKE CONTROL MOVE

ERIE, Pa., Oct. 13.—(INS)—Erie is carrying its smoke control campaign to the state legislature.

Eli May, chief of Erie's smoke abatement bureau, has requested Erie county legislators to introduce a bill in the 1951 Assembly permitting third-class cities to control smoke produced by railroad locomotives.

At present third-class cities in the state do not have such power.
